Safety Expert Resigns

By B. DRUMMOND AYRES JR.
(c) N. Y. Times News Service
WASHINGTON — One of the National Traffic Safety Agency's top engineering consultants, William I. Stieglitz, resigned yesterday in protest against the federal standards for vehicle safety that were issued Tuesday.

In a sharply worded three-page letter to Dr. William Haddon Jr., the administrator of the safety agency, Stieglitz charged that most of the new standards were "totally inadequate."

The standards would require that most cars, trucks, buses, and motorcycles manufactured for sale in the United States next year carry such safety devices and features as seat belts, rupture-resistant fuel tanks, outside rearview mirrors, emergency brake systems and impact-absorbing steering wheels.

However, Stieglitz declared:

"For the most part (the standards) merely give an official stamp of 'safety' to what would have been incorporated in 1968 vehicles even if federal standards had not been issued. They endorse the lowest level of performance within the industry, worldwide, in each area covered."

Stieglitz asserted that at times the agency had ignored his advice and at other times had not even sought it. He said he had his first look at the safety standards as finally issued, after they had been released to the general public.

Therefore, he concluded, he could not "in good conscience" continue to serve as an agency consultant.

Dr. Haddon said last night that he had accepted Stieglitz's resignation. Indications were that the successor would be George Nield, a trucking engineer, with safety experience, in the post office department.

Stieglitz's difficulties at the safety agency, Haddon asserted, stemmed from his "preposterously impossible" recommendations. Dr. Haddon said the agency was required by law to promulgate "reasonable and practicable" standards but that such regulations would have been out of the question had Stieglitz's advice been followed.

The resignation adds another dimension to the furor that has welled since the 20 safety standards were issued. Heretofore, the criticism of the regulations was from outside the safety agency.

Groundhog Sees Shadow, Retreats

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Those world-famous Pennsylvania groundhogs — Punxsutawney Phil and his nameless kin from Quarryville — slithered out of their warm holes shortly after dawn yesterday and quickly scurried back: They saw their shadows which, so the legend goes, means six more weeks of winter.

The communique from the watchers went right to the heart of the issue.

At Gobbler's Knob, where Punxsutawney Phil has his burrow, the loyal brethren of the Groundhog Club saw their leader squeeze topside just as a ray of sunlight cut through a thick overcast. It was, precisely, 7:29 a.m., EST.

Farther east, the top-hatted gents of the Slumbering Groundhog Lodge in Quarry-ville, in southern Lancaster County, saw their idol pop out at—exactly—7:14½ a.m.

"It is his own fault he saw his shadow," said Thaddeus Ferguson, a member of Quarryville's Hibernating Board of Governors. "One minute he was enveloped in fog, but his ingrown laser gland began to function and cut a path through the fog 10 feet wide."

"This let in the morning sun, and the groundhog blinked, placed his tiny paws to his eyes and skeddaddled right back in to his home for another six weeks' rest."

Robert Herr, Quarryville's chief hibernator, gleefully termed Punxsutawney Phil a phony for being a late shadow seer (or seer-er). Nearly 15 minutes, that is.

Selective Service Group to Report Within Two Weeks

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Commission on Selective Service will present a voluminous study of the draft to President Johnson within two weeks, sources said yesterday. The commission had been ordered to report by Jan. 1.

"We are late but I'm not embarrassed," one official said. "We've been looking over the issues pretty carefully."

Many of the commission's key decisions were reached during meetings in December and early January, this informant said, but the actual writing of the report was delayed.

Johnson set up the 20-member commission last summer in the wake of student protests and dissatisfaction with the draft. He named Burke Marshall, former Justice Department official, as director and ordered the commission to make an exhaustive study of the Selective Service.

Johnson told Congress in his

State of the Union message Jan. 10, "We should modernize our Selective Service System."

After he receives the commission's report, the President told the legislators, "I will send you new recommendations to meet our military manpower needs, but let us resolve that this is to be the Congress that made our draft laws as fair and as effective as possible."

Sources said the commission, in meetings last year, quickly ruled out any radical changes in the present system — such as the proposed alternatives of a standing professional army or a widespread national service program.

The report is known, however, to call for an extensive shakeup of the draft system and for setting up national standards for student and other deferments to reduce inequities.

SALISBURY SAYS

Hanoi Ready To Talk Peace

By WALTER R. MEARS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Harrison E. Salisbury of the New York Times said yesterday he believes the Hanoi government "is ready to begin to talk business," about peace in Vietnam, but any negotiations must begin in total secrecy.

"It's being done, I don't want to know about it," said the newsman whose accounts of bomb damage and civilian casualties in North Vietnam stirred national debate at the turn of the year.

"I don't want to read about it," Salisbury told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. "Because that means it isn't ticking."

Salisbury, an assistant managing editor of the Times, said Hanoi's dependence on Soviet and Chinese supplies must be forcing a reappraisal of the Communist position on peace talks.

He said civil war inside China, or a heightening of the dispute between the Peking regime and the Soviet Union could lead to a halt in essential supplies.

"Any reasonable or prudent (Hanoi) government must see that the chances are that they are stronger today than they may be a few months from now or a year from now," Salisbury said.

Salisbury said he thinks Hanoi may be flexible on one point that looms as an obstacle to successful peace talks—the Communists' insistence that the government of South Vietnam be reshaped on their terms.

"It is my impression, and it's a subjective one, that there is less hardness on that point than you might suspect," he said.

Salisbury said he gathered these impressions during his two-week visit to North Vietnam, which began Dec. 23.

He said the war appears to be at a turning point, with either a negotiated settlement or dangerous escalation ahead.

Salisbury said American bombing of the Communist North has cemented the nation—as air raids unified Britain and Germany during World War II.

Salisbury said the American bombing is slowing somewhat the flow of North Vietnamese men and supplies into South Vietnam. But he suggested supplies still are being sent southward as rapidly as they can be used.

Salisbury acknowledged one error, but generally defended the reports he filed from North Vietnam. The mistake, he said, was in his initial story, which did not attribute civilian casualty figures to Communist officials.

NO HINTS OF RED EFFORT

LBJ Foresees War Concessions

By WALTER R. MEARS

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson said yesterday it will take concessions by both the United States and the Communists to bring a negotiated peace to Vietnam.

But, amid a swirl of rumors about Vietnam peace moves, Johnson said there has been no hint of a serious Communist effort to bring the conflict to the conference table.

"Every hour of everyday the spokesmen of this government are under instructions to explore every prospect for peace," the President said.

But at a White House news conference dominated by the Southeast Asian war, this was Johnson's refrain: "In all candor, I am not aware of any serious effort that the other side has made, in my judgment, to bring the fighting to a stop and to stop the war."

"We'd like to have a ceasefire," he said, "we'd be real glad to stop our bombing as we have on two previous occasions if we had any indication of reciprocal action."

Johnson said the United States stands ready to discuss mutual steps to ease the combat, an exchange of prisoners, an effort to bring true demilitarization to the demilitarized zone between North and South Vietnam — "or any other aspects which might take even a small step in the direction of peace."

Almost every question during the half-hour session dealt with Vietnam. And when Johnson faced one that did not — an inquiry about his feelings on the job he holds — the war came up again.

"I go to bed every night feeling that I failed that day because I couldn't end the conflict in Vietnam," Johnson said.

On other topics: —Johnson said China is having serious internal problems, problems which are not going to improve the position of North Vietnam. "I do not see that the differences in China are going to contribute anything to the strength of the North Vietnamese," he said. But Johnson said he was not implying that China's internal discord is likely to bring peace quickly.

—He urged Senate approval of the proposed consular convention with the Soviet Union. "I feel very strongly that the ratification of this treaty is very much in our national interest," Johnson said. He said it could mean 10 to 15 more Communist diplomats in the United States, but that does not raise security or espionage problems "which the FBI cannot effectively and efficiently deal with."

Bradford Lawyers Disbarred

SMETHPORT, Pa. (AP)—Two brother attorneys from Bradford were disbarred yesterday by Judge Glenn E. Mencer of McKean County Common Pleas Court.

William P. McVay and his brother, James P., were accused by the county bar association of misusing funds of the Buffalo District Flood Control Authority and improperly using funds of three individuals and an estate. The individuals and estate were clients.

The brothers did not appear at a hearing before Judge Mencer.

The judge said he notified the Pennsylvania Supreme and Superior Courts of his action.

FIRST STEPS TAKEN

FCC to Outlaw Walkie-Talkies

By JACK GOULD

NEW YORK — The Federal Communications Commission has taken a first step toward gradually outlawing millions of walkie-talkie radios, which in recent years have become popular with children and grown-ups.

The regulatory agency confirmed in Washington yesterday that it planned to propose new rules under which the existing 27-megacycle band would be closed to the small unlicensed transmitting and receiving units. These units can carry two-way conversations over a maximum distance of a mile.

The channels would be reserved for licensed citizens band equipment only.

Those who have thrived to saying "over and out" on the airwaves as part of a hobby would be granted a year's grace after the adoption of new standards.

Following the deadline, the transistorized walkie-talkies would have to be discarded or modified to meet license requirements. Most of the inexpensive units would not lend themselves to conversion.

The F.C.C. proposals call for opening a band for unlicensed walkie-talkies between 49.9 and 50 megacycles. To use this band would require the purchase of new equipment.

Enforcement of the ban on unlicensed 27-megacycle use, however, could be difficult because of the problem of monitoring millions of sets and because their range is so limited.

New rules would be a blow to a segment of the Japanese electronics industry, which manufactures most of the walkie-talkies sold in department stores, toy stores, novelty shops and retail radio outlets.

The sets are sold here for as low as $10 for a pair of units. Christmas sales of walkie-talkies have been described as "phenomenal."

The walkie-talkies, operating with a maximum power of 100 milliwatts, are the only transmitting devices that do not require any kind of license. Under the new rules, unlicensed equipment would have to pass commission inspection.

The commission prepared its proposed changes following complaints that the unlicensed walkie-talkies were causing "a chaotic interference condition" for licensed users of the 27-megacycle citizens band, including two-way radio circuits used by small businesses, boat owners, doctors and others.

The proposed changes, which may catch many stores with a stock of walkie-talkies difficult to sell, had been carefully guarded by the commission.

Word of the change became known following a report that a magazine called S9, which specializes in coverage of citizens radio developments was printing the substance of the rules in its next issue. Tom Kneitel, editor of the magazine, confirmed that he had the story and that the issue would be on the newsstands about Feb. 20.

Look Magazine, Manchester Sue New York Newspaper

NEW YORK (AP)—The owners of Look magazine and author William Manchester sued the New York World Journal Tribune yesterday for more than $700,000, claiming the newspaper published material from Look's serialization of the book "The Death of a President" seven hours before the release time.
Covles Publications, Inc., and Manchester also contended in their federal court civil action that the newspaper used more than 300 words of direct quotes, the maximum set by the magazine.
The court was asked to enjoin the World Journal Tribune from further publication of any material from the serialization pending outcome of the suit. Herb Kamm, executive editor of the World Journal Tribune said: "We are not aware that the World Journal Tribune violated any embargo or any other limitation on the publication of the material in Look."

Both GOP, Democrats Swat At President's Economics

By STERLING F. GREEN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional Democrats and Republicans took turns swatting at President Johnson's economic program yesterday — especially the six per cent tax surcharge proposed for July 1.

Members of the Senate House Economic Committee, questioning Chairman Gardner Ackley of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, also complained about:
An alleged "serious economic policy blunder" last year in underestimating the costs of the Vietnam war by about $10 billion. Ackley conceded the estimates were low but said accuracy was impossible in that period of military buildup. He said the situation is "far more stable this year."

What Republican members called a blend of "fancy fiscal and budgetary footwork" which, they charged, may bring on a recession and inflation simultaneously in 1967.

The seeming "abandonment," for this year, of the administration's wage price guideposts.

The economic council, in its report accompanying Johnson's economic message to Congress last week, said it was not posting a "numerical standard" for wage increases like the 3.2 per cent established in 1962. The council said higher wage demands must be expected in view of the past year's rapid cost of living advance, but appealed for restraint by both labor and management, and urged continued adherence to the guidepost concept.

Rep. Henry S. Reuss, D-Wis., sharply challenged that position. Addressing Ackley, who was leadoff witness in the committee's exploration of the presidential report, Reuss said: "It seems to me this is just the time we need the guideposts most.

"I am going to suggest at an appropriate time that this committee itself consider taking up the task of establishing wage and price guidelines for labor and management."

Rep. W.E. Brock, R-Tenn., told Ackley he was fascinated by the logic expressed about guidelines. "It seems you are saying that we virtually have no policy at all," Brock said.

Ackley said it would be unrealistic now to say that wage settlements this year would not exceed the 3.2 per cent figure.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., chairman of the committee, said, "The 3.2 per cent is grossly unfair, but this is ineffective without any benchmark." He asked if some compromise could be worked out.

"I think we can ask for and expect restraint and responsibility without a specific figure," Ackley replied.

Republican members of the 20-man joint committee issued a statement charging that the proposed tax surcharge is ill-timed. They called for a "complete turnabout" in national economic policy.

The minority predicted: "The outlook now is for inflationary pressures from the cost side, a rash of serious labor disputes, a marked slowing or possibly downturn of business activity, the danger of an increase in unemployment, some worsening in the balance of payments, and aggravation of the cost-price squeeze on agriculture."

Sen. Scott Cites New Challenges For GOP Party

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — U.S. Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., said last night that by meeting the challenges of a new "technically-proficient" American society, the Republican party could become "the dominant party during the final third of the 20th century."

Scott, in remarks prepared for delivery before a "mock congress" at Northwestern University, said a new generation "of professionals, scientists, managers will expect answers to be found to the problems of education, of mass transit, of pollution, of equal rights and equal opportunity, of poverty and urban blight, of America's role in international affairs."

The party which responds to these challenges with meaningful solutions will be the dominant party during the final third of the 20th century," Scott said, adding:
"We Republicans have every intention of being that party."

TAPE RECORDING RELEASED

How to Assassinate President Told Police Before Shooting

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Two weeks before President John F. Kennedy was assassinated in Dallas, Tex., a man described to a police informer how it could be done, Dallas was not mentioned in the conversation.
He said a high-powered rifle could be disassembled, taken into an office building, reassembled, and then used for murder.
Afterward, he said, officers "would leave no stone unturned" trying to find the killer.
"They will pick up somebody within hours afterward — just to throw the public off," he said.
The conversation, on Nov. 9, 1963, was taped and is now in the files of the Miami Police Department. Its existence was revealed yesterday in a story in the Miami News. Police then played the tape for reporters.

An assassination attempt was not discussed in specific terms such as dates, times or places.

Police would not identify the informer or the man describing the possibilities, who spoke dispassionately in a soft, level accent about bombings in Alabama and Georgia and attempts to kill the president.

The man who described the assassination possibilities did name one person he said was trying to kill Kennedy. He said, "He is just as likely to get him as anybody. He tried to get Martin Luther King. He followed him for miles and miles, and couldn't get close enough to him."

The potential assassin was described as a hard-core underground agent with a taste for terror bombing.

The newspaper story, written by Bill Barry, said the man who described a possible assassination on the tape was picked up by the FBI five days after President Kennedy was killed in Dallas, and questioned.

The Secret Service and the FBI in Miami would not comment.

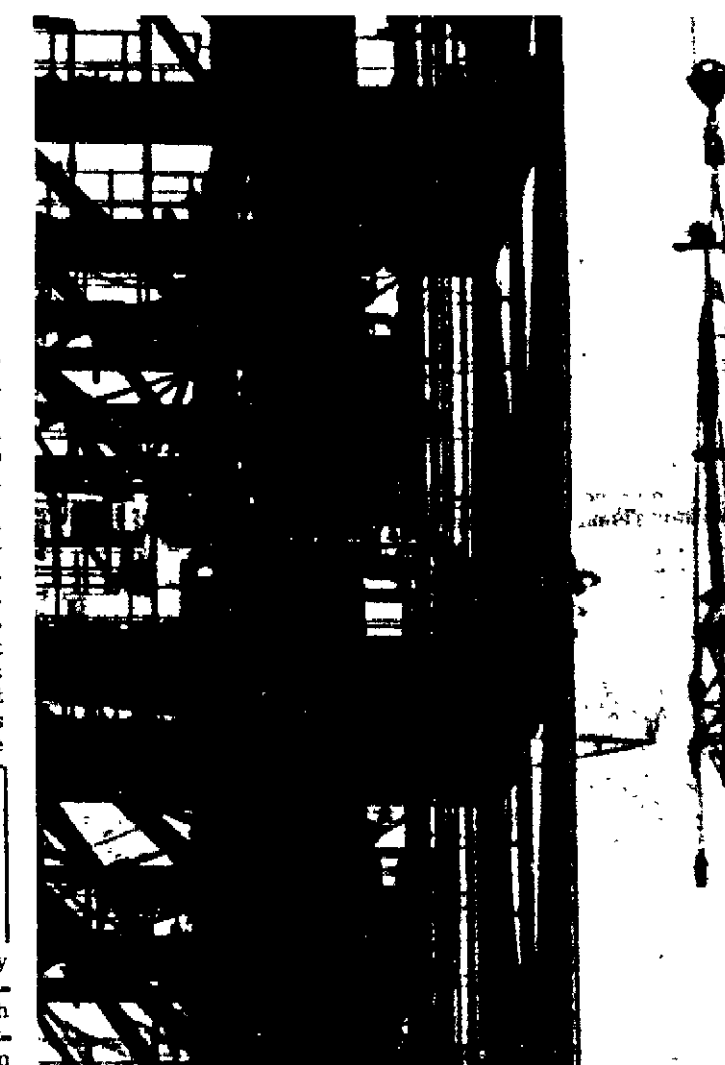

Barry said the informer had told police that, as he attended meetings throughout the country, he had heard repeated talk about an assassination attempt.

Because of this talk and because President Kennedy was due in Miami on Nov. 18, police asked the informer to lure this man to Miami so his conversation could be recorded, Barry said.

President Kennedy did come to Miami on Nov. 18. Police said they dissuaded him from motorcading through downtown Miami. Instead, he took a helicopter.

Police would give no other indication of what credence they put in the conversation. They said its contents had been turned over to the Secret Service after it was made and before President Kennedy was killed.

Barry said that, because of the similarities in the tape with what took place in Dallas, police brought the tape-recorded conversation to the attention of the Secret Service again after the assassination.

National Forge Promotes Three At Two Plants

National Forge Co. last night announced three promotions at the Irvine plant and its subsidiary in Titusville.

Andrew Elinski, recently manager of production at Irvine, has been appointed general manager of the Titusville branch and Machine Co.

Donald Cramer, recently general foreman at Irvine, has been appointed company superintendent of machining, press forming and surface hardening.
Robert Roshong, metallurgy manager, is now also in charge of steel production, open die forging and heat treating at Irvine.

Elinski has worked at National Forge 27 years as machine operator, foreman, general foreman, process engineer and production manager.
Cramer came to the company in 1941. He is experienced in machining and press forming, having worked as machine operator, inspector, foreman and general foreman.
Roshong joined National Forge in June, 1965, as manager of production metallurgy. He is a graduate of Ohio State University.

auto safety field that the Senate Commerce Committee might take a look at the standards.

What upsets the critics, including Stuegitz, is the manner and extent of the modification of the standards as originally proposed on Dec. 3.

Initially, there were to be 23 standards. But three — relating to tires, wheel rims and head rests — were dropped on the ground that more technical data on such devices was needed.

Of the 20 standards finally issued all were reworded, most were softened somewhat and six were scheduled for further modification. The date for most of them to go into effect was delayed four months, from Sept. 1, 1967, to Jan. 1, 1968.

In the Chicago suit, Look and Manchester accused the paper of breaking the embargo on the first part of the Look serialization and asked for damages of upwards of $200,000.

Building in State Split for 1966

HARRISBURG (AP) — Non-residential building in Pennsylvania during 1966 was 3.1 per cent higher than in 1965—but residential building for the same period declined, William J. Hart, state secretary of labor and industry said yesterday.

Hart said in a report that residential building last year dropped 6.4 per cent from the 1965 total.

Enemy Forces Increase

By BOB GASSAWAY
SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — U.S. headquarters yesterday boosted its estimate of enemy forces in South Vietnam to 284,000 even as the day's reports from allied field units told of the killing of more than 150 up and down the country. U.S. Marines accounted for 68.

The revised estimate indicated a net increase of 3,000 Communist troops last week, proportionately much greater than an influx of 4,000 Americans in the same week that boosted total allied strength, including Vietnamese, to nearly 1.16 million men.

As to possible contributing factors in the Communist gains, a captured Viet Cong document made public Tuesday had called on the guerrillas to press a campaign for South Vietnamese recruits, "regardless of age or sex."

Monsoon storms have recently impeded U.S. air operations against the routes by which North Vietnam's regulars infiltrate the south.

U.S. squadrons were held to 57 missions over North Vietnam Wednesday. Several of these strikes were made in the demilitarized zone that blankets the border. Heavy fog and cloud cover in some cases prevented assessment of the results.

Dispatches from neighboring nations reflected the Southeast Asian ferment that is crystallized in Vietnam war:

— A Laotian army spokesman announced between 20 and 30 Pathet Lao destroyed six U.S.-supplied T28 fighters and two helicopters of Air America, a charter firm, in a raid on the airport of Luang Prabang, the royal capital of Laos. He said five or six persons were killed. The Pathet Lao are Communist guerrillas. They hold eastern Laotian territory through which North Vietnam moves men and supplies via the Ho Chi Minh trail.

— In Phnomh Penh, Cambodian officials raised another charge of violation of their border territory. They said South Vietnamese forces staged an attack Monday on the village of Sray Angang, 60 miles east of Phnomh Penh, and two Cambodians were killed and six wounded. There was no immediate comment in Saigon, where Communist activity along the frontier remains a matter of concern.

Over-all combat casualties declined on both sides last week, but American losses were slightly higher than in the week before. Unofficial tabulations of the American toll since 1961 edged up to 7,129 killed and 40,790 wounded.

A U.S. spokesman said 131 Americans were killed in action, 822 wounded and six missing or captured. That compared with 123 killed, 716 wounded and five missing in the week of Jan. 15-21.

U.S. officials said 979 of the enemy were killed, compared with 1,681 in heavier action of Jan. 15-21.

State Revenue Intake Above Early Estimate

HARRISBURG (AP) — Revenue collections for the first seven months of the current fiscal year are $7,046,000 above estimates — but this is below the surpluses collected last year, the Governor's Office of Administration said yesterday.

In a monthly report, the office said that last month's collections totaled $101,905,000 — $245,000 short of the estimate. Total collections to date in the fiscal year, which ends June 30, amount to $612,729,000.

Last year, the tax intake exceeded the estimate by $29 million, and former Gov. William W. Scranton finished the fiscal year with a total revenue surplus of $89 million.

The Office of Administration said the January collections did not include $1.26 million due on the 15 per cent liquor tax, which had not been deposited in time for the monthly tabulation.

If the liquor tax had been included, the monthly intake would have exceeded estimates by $260,000.

Two Job-Training Grants Awarded For Pittsburgh Area

HARRISBURG (AP) — A $145,953 federal grant has been approved for two job training programs in Pittsburgh, the State Labor and Industry Department reported yesterday.

The grants bring to 716 the number of programs authorized for the state under the federal Manpower and Development Training Act.

One course is designed to train 40 persons as surgical technicians at a cost of $73,800.

Justice Handicapped

More than 14 months ago, an 83-year-old Leetsdale man was knifed by someone who has been trying to rob him.

The man died. But before he did, he told police who stabbed him.

He may as well have carried his story to his grave. Under court rules, his statement couldn't be used as trial evidence.

Why? Because when he made the statement nobody had told him he was going to die. And, in fact, he didn't die until three days later.

Apparently the courts must operate under the pretext that a man who has been stabbed will tell the truth only if he is aware he is about to meet his Creator.

Police, nevertheless, were able—through the victim's statement—to find the accused slayer and arrest him.

Following his arrest, police said the suspect confessed the crime and even told them where to find the knife.

But under rules recently laid down by the U.S. Supreme Court, the purported confession couldn't be used as trial evidence. Even the knife couldn't be shown in court.

Why? Because the suspect didn't have a lawyer at the time he was being questioned by police.

As a result, there was no case left. The only thing the judge could do was order a verdict of acquittal. And the only thing the jury could do was free the defendant.

This is American justice, in the year of our Lord 1967.

It is a justice handcuffed by the warped judgments of a Supreme Court consumed by an unlimited concern for individual rights and an unmitigated disregard for society's plight.

It is a justice that is converting crime into a sport—with all the rules rigged against the police and the public they are hired to protect.

It is a justice riddled with legal loopholes so numerous they threaten to tear asunder the basic fabric of a civilized society.

It is a justice that cries for reform.

Save On Taxes--New Laws

(In collaboration with the Research Institute of America)

Although there was no general income tax increase or decrease in 1966, Congress voted several important tax changes. Many of these law changes can mean a bigger or smaller tax bill for the millions directly affected—and, particularly in these cases, knowledge of what lies beneath the surface of the laws is a MUST.

Below are four major tax changes you should check for their application to you before you start filling out your 1966 income tax return.

(1) If you are a businessman or a professional man who bought machinery and equipment for use in your business or profession after Oct. 9, 1966, you are aware, of course, that you cannot get the tax savings investment credit to which you otherwise would have been entitled. This investment credit was suspended last year and, as the law reads now, the suspension will last until 1968.

But there were many exceptions to the suspension, any one or more of which may help you get the investment credit even though you bought your property after Oct. 9, 1966. As an illustration, you still are entitled to the credit on up to $20,000 of purchases you make during the entire period from Oct. 10, 1966 to Dec. 31, 1967.

Even for purchases over $20,000, you still are entitled to the credit if you were "committed" before Oct. 10, 1966, in certain respects to acquire the property; for instance, because you were obliged to do so under a binding contract made before Oct. 10. If you made substantial acquisitions after Oct. 9, be sure to discuss the many complicated exceptions in this area with a professional adviser.

(2) If you have a son or other relative who is an officer serving in Vietnam, reminding him now that when he files his 1966 return, his pay for service in combat zones or for related hospitalization is tax-exempt up to $500 a month, instead of up to only $200 a month, as before the new law.

The combat pay of enlisted men in Vietnam continues to be exempt in full, as before.

(3) If you are among the thousands of businessmen who sell automobiles, trucks, houses and other real or tangible personal property on the installment basis and if you then in turn sell your customer receivables to a bank, finance company, etc., you got a valuable tax saving opportunity from Congress in 1966.

The Treasury had previously refused to let you deduct reserves for bad debts to cover any possible loss to you from making good to your bank on your receivable—while customers failed to pay. Now Congress has given you blanket permission from the Treasury. You can do this for years which began before Aug. 2, 1966, such as the calendar year 1966. But while these reserves are advantageous to you, Congress added one "catch." You can't deduct that portion of the reserves equal to what would have been allowed as of the beginning of the year if you had maintained such a reserve in previous years.

(4) If you usually wait until deadline to file your return, one tax change will give you peace of mind. You probably have thought all you had to do was mail the return before midnight April 15 (or April 17, which is the last day this year).

But technically, the return had to be received by the district director by April 15. Last year, Congress cleared up the problem by specifying that if your envelope is postmarked April 15 (April 17 for your 1966 return) you are safe.

Of course you understand that none of the news now breaking on tax law changes in 1967 affect your 1966 return.

Calm on the Cultural Front

(c) N.Y. Times News Service

WASHINGTON—The air is full of hints of cultural fatigue. Nobody talks about Batman any more or jokes about Andy Warhol paintings. Nobody gets really excited any longer about Bogart film festivals. The Beatles may disband, and nobody cares. A few people still complain about television, but nobody listens. Adults no longer become incensed at boys with long hair, and as for the mini skirt, well, even grandmothers have quit fuming about it.

"Swinging London" is a dying joke. Nobody burns draft cards any more. Suddenly, it is almost impossible to stir up any outrage against Norman Mailer, Barry Goldwater, Cassius Clay or Hugh Hefner. It is as though everyone has suddenly become tired of them. The Kennedys go on and on, but the latest poll shows that even Senator Robert is beginning to suffer a falling off.

All these pop-culture phenomena of the early 1960's are victims of the voracious American appetite for consumption. Some, like the mini skirt and Norman Mailer, have met the fate of the family's new car; people have simply become used to having them around. A car with 30,000 miles on it still has its place in the scheme of life, but most people are incapable of becoming excited about it.

Other used-up cultural phenomena, like the Beatles, will probably go the way of a bride's first furniture. They will probably be stored away in the attic and revisited some rainy day, years from now, up there with the old baby shoes and stuffed bears, to remind us of how it was to be young.

We seem to have assimilated the pop-culture outburst of the early sixties, so that suddenly it all seems a little old and rather stale and lacking in capacity to make our blood boil. Being the earth's most superbly conditioned consumers, however, we are not content. The unnatural quiet that now prevails on the cultural front does not satisfy the craving for something new.

Something new is undoubtedly coming. It will probably be delivered by the young, as it usually is. The young, of course, are no longer the same people who nourished pop culture in the early sixties. Most of them were still in short pants when the Beatles were pioneering wet-mop hair and Harvard was apotheosizing Bogart. The crowd who did all that is going to have to face it: They are now the old and will have to step fast to avoid becoming foyegs before they are 22.

We cannot foresee what cultural shock is about to shake the landscape, but ominous possibilities arise when we reflect that the kid—soon to take over will regard the 1950's as a remote and, therefore, romantic decade.

These, remember, are youngsters who probably do not remember ever having seen a tailfin, ever having heard of "Engine Charlie" Wilson, or ever having lived in a house without television. Young Americans are peculiarly susceptible to serve onsets of cultural sentimentalism about decades they had the good luck to miss. Witness the contemporary 40-year-old's romance with the "Roaring Twenties" and the contemporary 20-year-old's passion for the depression thirties.

With this in mind, we can make a few tentative pessimistic predictions about what might be expected from a crop of young people who missed the fifties. Tailfin skirts are not improvable.

Joe McCarthy might conceivably replace Bogart as the reigning culture hero who symbolizes the individual's alienation from society. The musical beat could be set by Fred Waring. Absurd? That's what they said when ABC first proposed reviving Batman.

Boy's hair would undoubtedly be crew cut. After all, nobody ever called the fifties "The Fun Fifties"; they were as square as Sunday morning in a dry county. Naturally, the political swinger would no longer be Senator Bob, but Governor Romney.

Advanced cultural outposts in Manhattan and Cambridge would pack in the crowds with film festivals of old "Life of Riley" tapes, starring William Bendix. Enough black vision! Something is coming, but it need not be this bad. Perhaps, if we all made an effort, starting right now, to get the kiddies interested in the 450's B.C. . . .

JIM BISHOP Good Conceals The Bad

NASSAU, Bahamas. — Black Bahamians use good manners to conceal bad feelings. They grinned and bowed to the ruling whites — the Symonettes, the Sands, the Solomons — but they despised them. The natives worked the old schooners, built the roads, mowed the rich lawns, and said yes to the Bay Street Boys.

A few years ago, when Her Majesty Elizabeth graciously granted internal Home Rule to the Bahamas, the pressure of the Negroes from the bottom was so strong that the ruling clique granted the vote to the unpropertied masses. Lyndon Pindling, now premier, ran for one of the 33 seats in the House of Assembly and was elected. Randol Fawkes, with labor backing, ran and was elected on June 8th, 1966.

The upper house, once called the Legislative Council but now The Senate, is controlled by Sir Ralph Grey, the Queen's Governor. The Bay St. Boys administered the 700 islands as a personal fief. The law makes gambling a crime, so they licensed gambling houses in New Providence and Grand Bahama.

One official, who owned 200 pieces of property, had 200 votes. Others got in on the "ground floor" when the government gave an American, Wallace Groves, the right to develop Grand Bahama Island.

Fawkes broke the elite clique in 1958 when he won his fight for universal male suffrage. Any man 21 years of age and a resident of The Bahamas could vote. It was an enormous victory for the scions of slaves, but they didn't know what to do with the ballot.

Two mulattoes led a fight in Pindling's Progressive Liberal Party to expel Randol Fawkes. They won. He was dumped as "too radical." Four years later, Fawkes was elected by his labor group. His party now had one seat. Pindling's PLP had 10. The white UBP had 22. The number of seats in the House was increased from 33 to 38. UBP had more than enough.

The black PLP began to hold mass meetings. The people met peacefully. There were no sit-ins, shutdowns, civil rights marches or violence. The Bahama government was goaded into sending troops to break up the meetings.

Fawkes saw the soldiers coming. "Don't fight!" he yelled. "Don't give them a provocation. Go to the nearest churches and kneel and pray. We shall win with a mighty meekness." The crowd listened, grumbled, and broke suddenly for the churches. This tactic was repeated several times.

The troops were never goaded. A year ago, as the House of Assembly was about to convene, a crowd of Negroes stood off the edge of Bay Street, between the House and the pale stone statue of Queen Victoria. Inside, on the Speaker's table, was the symbol of the power of the crown, a mace.

Lyndon Pindling, frustrated in trying to stop unjust legislation, seized the mace, opened a window, and tossed it to the crowd. "That," says Mr. Fawkes, "was a poetic gesture. He was tossing power back where it belonged — to the people."

The crowd broke the mace into metal souvenirs. It was an augur, but the United Bahamian Party felt safe. Sir Roland Symonette, the premier, still had a comfortable majority. Sir Stafford Sands, his minister of tourism, kept pouring out a torrent of romantic words about the beauty of sub-tropical life on islands that never heard of an income tax.

Nor would they, the government intoned. Thousands of Americans and low-income Britons have bought lots in the Bahamas on the premise that they can live cheaply in sea-shore sunshine through the retirement years. There is no tax — true, but a loaf of bread costs 55 cents. The Lucayan Hotel cost about $30,000 per room to build. Who needs an income tax?

An election was scheduled for January 10th, 1967. Pindling's PLP decided to campaign hard. Fawkes ran in his own district, St. Barnabas, of the 700 islands in the double-vertebrae, only 20 can boast a village. PLP had posters, bumper-stickers and speeches in all of them.

Sir Roland Symonette decided not to campaign. The government couldn't lose. The natives were jolly and apathetic. Many had no interest in voting. The Bay St. Boys held no mass rallies, begged nobody's vote.

The first returns showed that Randol Fawkes had 847 votes to the Bay St. candidate's 45. The government of the Bahamas started to go into shock . . .

(Copyright, 1967, by Bell-McClure Syndicate)

WASHINGTON — There was an important closed-door debate inside the Senate Foreign Relations Committee on whether to summon J. Edgar Hoover to testify regarding his fears that the Soviet-American consular treaty would increase espionage in the United States.

Hoover had written a letter to Secretary of State Rusk, which had the effect of withdrawing his objections to the treaty. But almost simultaneously he wrote a letter to his close friend, Sen. Karl Mundt, R-S.D., listing many cases of Soviet espionage. This letter had the effect of knocking the props out from under the first letter and from under the treaty.

Senate members of the Foreign Relations Committee, therefore, wanted to ascertain which letter represented Hoover's real view. Some of them were also concerned about the fact that American foreign policy was being set by the top police-men of the United States. Many Senators have been critical of the fact that foreign dictatorships have had their policies set by the secret police, not only in Nazi Germany, but more recently in Latin American governments.

Yet the United States was permitting the head of the FBI to knock down one of the most important foundation stones of Johnson's new policy of easing tensions with European Communist nations. The President has argued that if the world's two chief atomic powers—the USA and USSR—can get along together, there will be no World War III. Yet the consular treaty, which the United States took the initiative in negotiating with Russia, has been stymied for two years because of J. Edgar Hoover's objection.

When Chairman Fulbright, D-Ark., wrote Hoover recently asking him to testify before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee in order to thereby straighten out his views, the FBI chief wrote back that his appearance was up to Acting Attorney General Ramsey Clark. Sen. Fulbright, therefore, proposed, in a closed-door session, that he be authorized to write Clark and ask him to send Hoover before the Senate Committee to testify. One Senator, Frank Lausche, D-Ohio, seemed reluctant to have Hoover put on the spot at all, but finally went along with the proposed letter.

Other Senators, remembering that Hoover had ducked out of two previous invitations to testify, were eager to have the committee to go on record that Hoover must be called, whether he wanted to go or not.

Note: When Sen. Ed Long, D-Mo., "invited" Hoover to appear before the Senate Wiretapping

DEATH VALLEY DAYS

DREW PEARSON AND JACK ANDERSON

To Put J. Edgar On the Spot

Subcommittee in order to ascertain whether he or Bobby Kennedy had been responsible for wholesale wiretapping, Hoover declined. Again, when Bobby Baker's lawyers asked that Hoover testify regarding the admitted bugging of Baker's conversations, Hoover remained on the sidelines.

Friends of the veteran space explorer, Gus Grissom, one of the three victims of the tragic flash fire aboard the Apollo spacecraft, he was supposed to command, recall one sour episode in his career as an astronaut.

He was ordered on June 25, 1965, to attend a watermelon festival in Hampton, S.C., to honor Rep. L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., the white-manned, whiskey-swilling House Armed Services chairman.

Reluctantly, Grissom agreed to attend, along with Astronauts John Glenn and John Young. The crew-cut Grissom was notified that he would be called upon to say a few words as spokesman for the trio and would be expected to praise Congressman Rivers.

The astronaut, an Air Force officer, did as he was commanded, putting in a good word for Rivers, then going on to extol the moon program. Afterward, he complained to friends that he didn't enjoy doing a trained seal act for a politician, particularly one who didn't stay sober enough to appreciate the performance.

Grissom quietly served notice on his superiors that he never again wanted to be used for political purposes.

Those same superiors, impressed with Rivers' power over military legislation, have always hastened to do his bidding. In October 1965, the Joint Chiefs of Staff, Secretaries of the three services, and a host of other military dignitaries took time out from the Vietnam war to fly to Charleston, S.C., to help unveil a bust of Rivers. The previous year, the same glittering assemblage turned up in the tiny town of St. Stephen, S.C., to help celebrate "L. Mendel Rivers Day." On several other occasions, the Navy has discreetly loaded Rivers into an ambulance and whisked him off to the Bethesda Naval Hospital to sober up.

Note: Despite his long history of alcoholism, Rivers remains chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, where he is privileged to read highly confidential documents affecting the security of the United States. Throughout the executive branch of government, anyone with an alcohol problem is considered a security risk and is fired. While Adam Clayton Powell has been demoted as chairman of his House Education and Labor Committee, Rivers remains chairman of the much more sensitive and strategic House Armed Services Committee.

WASHINGTON — There was an important closed-door debate inside the Senate Foreign Relations Committee on whether to summon J. Edgar Hoover to testify regarding his fears that the Soviet-American consular treaty would increase espionage in the United States.

Hoover had written a letter to Secretary of State Rusk, which had the effect of withdrawing his objections to the treaty. But almost simultaneously he wrote a letter to his close friend, Sen. Karl Mundt, R-S.D., listing many cases of Soviet espionage. This letter had the effect of knocking the props out from under the first letter and from under the treaty.

Senate members of the Foreign Relations Committee, therefore, wanted to ascertain which letter represented Hoover's real view. Some of them were also concerned about the fact that American foreign policy was being set by the top police-men of the United States. Many Senators have been critical of the fact that foreign dictatorships have had their policies set by the secret police, not only in Nazi Germany, but more recently in Latin American governments.

Yet the United States was permitting the head of the FBI to knock down one of the most important foundation stones of Johnson's new policy of easing tensions with European Communist nations. The President has argued that if the world's two chief atomic powers—the USA and USSR—can get along together, there will be no World War III. Yet the consular treaty, which the United States took the initiative in negotiating with Russia, has been stymied for two years because of J. Edgar Hoover's objection.

When Chairman Fulbright, D-Ark., wrote Hoover recently asking him to testify before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee in order to thereby straighten out his views, the FBI chief wrote back that his appearance was up to Acting Attorney General Ramsey Clark. Sen. Fulbright, therefore, proposed, in a closed-door session, that he be authorized to write Clark and ask him to send Hoover before the Senate Committee to testify. One Senator, Frank Lausche, D-Ohio, seemed reluctant to have Hoover put on the spot at all, but finally went along with the proposed letter.

Other Senators, remembering that Hoover had ducked out of two previous invitations to testify, were eager to have the committee to go on record that Hoover must be called, whether he wanted to go or not.

On Anti-Gun Legislation

We hear a lot these days about proposals for anti-gun legislation. That such proposals should become law is anathema to the average sportsman.

None of us wants his liberties curbed, and the right to possess guns without burdensome restrictions has usually been taken for granted in a nation so lately removed from the pioneer era.

I had always assumed that gun-doin' in the West in the 1880's was a natural part of cowboyin'. Perhaps I had watched "Gun Smoke" and other westerns too often on television.

Imagine my surprise, then, when I found printed in my great-uncle's brand book of 1883 the following reference to a proposal to prohibit the use of firearms on the cattle ranges:

"From Proceedings of the Western Kansas Cattle Growers' Association Held at Dodge City, Kansas, May 10, 1883."

"Mr. Gorham introduced the following resolution:

WHEREAS, the custom of carrying firearms by those engaged in the roundups, and in working the cattle ranges, is productive of great evil, and frequently results in danger to persons and property. Be it therefore Resolved, that the custom of carrying firearms should be discontinued, and it is hereby made the duty of the members of the association, foremen of roundups, and foremen of ranges, to use every effort possible to prevent the carrying of firearms by cattle-men, at all times and places, except when absolutely necessary."

Strangely enough, the minutes of the meeting indicated that "the motion was adopted after some discussion."

I will never know how effective this voluntary prohibition against the carrying of firearms was on the western Kansas cattle ranges back in the 1880's. But it is interesting to note that the carrying of firearms was a matter of concern out West as long ago as 84 years.

As late as 1945, most of the cattlemen with whom I worked in New Mexico and Arizona carried rifles on their saddles. It was not uncommon for them to also carry six-shooters hidden in their "chap" pockets.

There were always several good excuses for carrying firearms at all times when riding the range. A saddle horse might break his leg in a gopher hole and have to be shot. Or a range cow might be so far gone from struggling for days in a bog hole that it needed to be put out of its misery.

Ranchers are always on the lookout for "varmints" that might molest their livestock. Coyotes are often encountered and while they usually seem to know if you are armed and act accordingly, no cowboy would want to be without a rifle when a coyote drifted into range. Mountain lions, being mainly nocturnal, are rarely seen unless tracked down by a pack of lion dogs. Still, the fact that it is mountain lion country makes it hard for a cowboy to resist carrying a rifle on his saddle. He might just have that one-in-a-million chance for a random shot at a lion that is poking about in the daytime.

One evening in 1933, when I was "batchin' it" at the 11,000 foot elevation in New Mexico's Upper Pecos country, a Spanish-American rode up to the cabin with a pack horse in tow. With the amount of hardware that he carried on his person, he looked like a reincarnation of Pancho Villa.

He had a rifle on his saddle, carried two six-shooters and wore a bandolier filled with cartridges across his chest. A huge black mustache, heavy black eyebrows, and a big sombrero all fitted him for the role of Pancho Villa.

Demos Make Offer

HARRISBURG — Reporter's Notebook:

ROUSING THE TROOPS — When Democratic Minority Floor Leader Herbert Fine-man took to the floor of the House of Representatives this week to offer his party's "declaration of our intention" for the 1967 legislative session, he struck a rather interesting note when he said: "We fully intend, as partners, to help in charting a constructive course of action for this Legislature. I would hope that the Republican Party would welcome and accept this offer of assistance."

The question that immediately popped into the noggin of many an (opposition) Republican legislative leader was "what assistance, that is, what assistance do we particularly need from the Democratic side?"

The reference of course was to the fact that administration Republicans control the House of Representatives with more than the 102 votes required for passage of legislation. Perhaps one GOP leader summed it up succinctly when he commented:

"Quite frankly this sounds more like a rousing pep talk to the troops than anything else. It's interesting to note, now that they have no power in the House, their sudden willingness to cooperate. Why didn't they think of this during the past two sessions when they themselves controlled the House and were in position to do something along the 'co-operative' line with Scranton Administration Republicans — when such cooperation was really needed?"

SAME OLD RECORD — For some reason or other it seems that each new administration in its early stage feels called upon to work up some sort of tired tidbit on how the new administration is "cracking down" on the use of state-owned automobiles — and the Shaffer Administration has proved itself no exception.

True to form, the press agency division of the Department of Property and Supplies, which maintains jurisdiction over the jitneys, issued a pronouncement noting how new P&S Secretary Perrin C. Hamilton has ordered "an immediate re-evaluation of the use of state automobiles", plus the usual ruddy insistence that the vehicles be used only on state business.

There was however a slight variation from the usual form in that, as the mimeographed announcement noted, Mr. Hamilton's action was being taken "at the direction of Governor Shaffer" — at which point the question arises as to whether department heads are going to be able to sharpen their pencils without "direction" from the front office (after all, at 45, Mr. Hamilton is one of the "older" department heads!).

VISITING FOREIGN EDUCATORS — Nine foreign educators on invitation of the Department of Public Instruction are now rounding out a six-week study in selected school districts of comparative specialties and levels of education in Pennsylvania.

The educators, representing India, Nepal, Pakistan, Spain, Thailand and Korea arrived in Harrisburg New Year's Day (of all times) and during the first week were house guests of departmental staff members while observing departmental functions. After that it was off to their respective school districts to which they had been assigned.

DURING THE WEEK END — Nothing to do on a week end in Pennsylvania? — Today, tomorrow and Sunday there are some 40 events on the agenda!

For example, today at Thiel College at Greenville in Mercer County there is a Centennial Art Exhibit . . . Tomorrow at Penn State there's a rifle shoot between Penn State and Indiana State University . . . Also tomorrow, in Erie at Rainbow Gardens there is the "Fine Feathers Ball" . . . On Sunday (again merely to illustrate the point) there's a graphic art exhibit at Lycoming College in Williamsport, or a violin recital at Bucknell University in Lewisburg.

Y'KNOW... SUCCESS REALLY TAKES A LOT OUT OF YOU.

C. L. SULZBERGER

U. S. Tack in China Struggle

(c) N. Y. Times News Service

PARIS — The war of the Chinese succession is in effect a struggle between the factions of Chief of State Liu Shao-Chi and of Defense Minister Lin Biao to inherit Chairman Mao Tse-Tung's massive power. Liu is backed by the regular Communist party apparatus and Lin is backed by Mao with his God-like reputation. Mao favors Liu but almost certainly prefers to avoid open intervention.

Liu was Mao's obvious successor as recently as two years ago because since 1959 he has been president of the republic while Mao seemed to be taking less interest in political affairs. When Mao received a French visitor in 1964, premier Chou En-Lai was present yet Chou was so disinterested in his leader's opinions that he read a newspaper while Mao talked. Chou is regarded by some who fancy themselves as experts as a possible compromise candidate to produce a synthesis solution. As the government's principal executive he has sought to keep the state functioning and to limit the effect of rolling chaos of ministries and the national economy. He has nevertheless seemed more with than against Mao and therefore increasingly at odds with the party hierarchy supporting Liu.

Andre Malraux, the famous French writer and old China hand, knows most of the quarreling leaders. Last December he spotted the significance of the naming as army cultural adviser of Chiang Ching, better known as Madame Mao Tse-Tung. A second-rate actress who had never mixed in politics, she was introduced into the succession struggle as Mao's direct representative, not as a personality in herself. Her emergence was as surprising as if Madame De Gaulle were suddenly to start making pronouncements on state affairs in France.

This seems to have been the first hint that the army was being brought directly into the quarrel. Chiang Ching is trying to help keep the troops Maoist so they can assist the improvised Red Guards in holding physical control for Mao and Lin. It was a sign of weakness when the army entered the quarrel because the Maoists previously had been confident they could maintain power with their Red Guard and other anti-revision-ist forces.

But even the army seems riven. Some generals favoring a modern, well equipped force have joined the technocrats and party hierarchy in backing Liu. They seem to be encouraged by intellectuals who secretly oppose Mao's cult of personality and resent absurd economic fantasies such as the unsuccessful Great Leap Forward. This coalition is opposed by the mass of fanatics including military men who believe the old guerrilla magic taught by Mao is invincible in revolutionary warfare, whether abroad or at home.

Because of continued deterioration in the situation and the growth of centrifugal forces, one might say the present state is the country's economic and agricultural production. China's potential role as a superpower may be postponed if not eliminated. Certainly it is evident that the world is now on the threshold of vitally important developments. Such a storm has been let loose in China that, if it cannot be settled soon, the entire country may dissolve into anarchy with various warlords running different areas.

Therefore, as China totters at the edge of its own pit, other nations and above all the United States must contemplate the strategy of history. Possibly now is the time for major new policy decisions because the moment of opportunity may pass. For example, should the forces of Liu and the party hierarchy achieve a decisive victory, one of their first steps might be to reaffirm the shattered Sino-Soviet alliance.

Washington should consequently not only ponder the implications of all this on Vietnam but also start a re-examination of its Chinese policy. No permanent solution can be arranged for Southeast Asia that does not take into account the presence of China, in whatever form.

Nowadays it is reckless to rely on any information emanating from Peking. Nevertheless there have been curious hints that either a Maoist government, should it emerge triumphant or a synthesis under Chou, would not admit the ultimate need for over-all settlement with the U.S.A. if for no other reason than had relations prevailing along the lengthy border with the U.S.S.R.

OXYGEN CONTROVERSY UNDERWAY

Lunar Landing Delay Possible

By EVERT CLARK

(c) N.Y. Times News Service

WASHINGTON — The deaths of three astronauts in a spacecraft fire at Cape Kennedy last week has made oxygen the heart of a controversy that could delay the Apollo lunar landing program for months or years.

At the least, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration is certain to have to justify in congressional hearings its choice of an all-oxygen environment instead of the less flammable mixtures of oxygen and nitrogen used by the Soviet Union or the oxygen-helium mixture used by deep sea divers.

A so-called "two-gas" system, probably using nitrogen and oxygen, is planned for long Apollo flights after the moon has been reached, and for the Air Force's manned orbiting laboratory.

The change to a two-gas system for the early Apollo flights, however, would set back the lunar timetable severely. One physiologist here estimates it would cost a minimum of two years.

In the discussions that followed the Cape Kennedy tragedy and a space cabin simulator fire that claimed two lives in San Antonio this week, the drawbacks of pure oxygen and the virtues of other systems have been oversimplified. The Russian choice of nitrogen and oxygen has been cited as something the United States should have done.

The Russians are considering shifting to helium and Dr. O. G. Gzlenko, a well-known Soviet bioastronautics specialist, has said such a change "undoubtedly" will be made in the future.

The usually high ratio of oxygen the Russians use in their Vostok and Voskhod flights raises the flammability of the mixture considerably above that of air, so the risk of fire is not completely avoided by having inert nitrogen in the mixture.

Increasing either the ratio of the pressure of oxygen increases its flammability, and there have been fatal fires even in Navy diving chambers when helium and oxygen are under high pressure.

The U.S. chose oxygen for the first Mercury spacecraft not, as has been reported, chiefly because of the weight limitations of the booster rocket but because of its simplicity and reliability.

Physiologists wanted to give spacemen an environment as much like that on earth as possible—nitrogen and oxygen at 14.7 pounds per square inch.

But it is the engineers who must build the spacecraft, and they would have had to develop delicate sensors to detect whether the two gases were in balance, and complex regulators to help maintain it.

This approach would have been what one Mercury expert at the time called "sophisticated pretense," rather than the much preferred "success without perspiration" of simple, known, reliable approaches.

BY $6 BILLION

Debt Increase Approved

By JOHN D. MORRIS

(c) N.Y. Times News Service

WASHINGTON — A $6 billion increase in the limit on the national debt—from $330 billion to $336 billion—was approved yesterday by the House Ways and Means Committee.

The authorizing bill, designated as "urgent" by the Johnson administration, was reported to the House by voice vote after a partisan contest over amendments sought by the Republican minority.

To the surprise of many, the Republicans were confronted by a united Democratic majority and their proposals were rejected by a straight party division of 15 to 10.

Rep. John W. Byrnes, R-

Wis., sponsor of the amendments, said afterward that he would take the issue to the House floor. The bill is scheduled for floor debate next Wednesday, the Senate Finance Committee plans hearings soon after the House acts.

One of the amendments called for the exemption of $6 billion in treasury bonds from the maximum interest rate of 4.25 per cent. The maximum now applies to securities maturing in more than five years, but the treasury has been unable to sell them because of the low yield to investors.

The other amendment would have required the treasury to include participation certificates in pooled federal loans as part of the national debt subject to the limit. These certificates, which are sold to the public and to government trust funds, represent shares in loans made by federal agencies to home builders, small businesses and others.

Byrnes contended that the certificates, being valid obligations of the United States, should come under the limit to provide a "true picture" of the debt's size.

He proposed a $340 billion limit to reflect past and projected sales of participation certificates.

China Cites 'Criminal Plot' Attempt to Attack Mainland

By MARK KURAMITSU

TOKYO (AP) — Radio Peking

charged yesterday that the United States, the Soviet Union and Japan had engaged in "a criminal plot" to use Manchuria's Heilungkiang Province as the gateway for an attack on Red China.

This alleged plot was foiled when the army and Mao Tse-tung's supporters seized control of Heilungkiang after bloody fighting Tuesday, the broadcast added.

Red China has accused the Soviet Union of massing troops along the Siberian border next to Heilungkiang. How U.S. and Japanese forces — far from Manchuria — could possibly be involved was not explained.

Peking has charged often that the Soviet Union and the United States were collaborating to try to encircle China.

Radio Peking broadcast the plot story in the Chinese language for home consumption and in the English language for use abroad.

Almost as surprising as the plot story, were mail posters

Vietnam War Casts Shadow Over U. S. Supreme Court

By BARRY SCHWEID

WASHINGTON (AP) — The war in Viet Nam is casting a lengthening shadow over the Supreme Court.

The justices already have agreed to decide how far demonstrators may go in practicing "civil disobedience," and they soon will have to make other decisions involving the war's unpopularity among certain segments of the nation's youth.

Three separate appeals awaiting invitation to be heard, challenge the government's right to imprison draft-card burners and the legality of the draft and the war itself.

If four of the nine justices give assent, the Vietnam war will, in effect, be tried by the Supreme Court.

Major figures are: David J. Miller, 24, self-described Roman Catholic pacifist convicted of setting fire to his draft classification notice near the Army's induction center in downtown New York.

David Henry Mitchell III, 24, Greenwich Village bookstore clerk who refused to report for induction, was convicted of draft evasion, and faces up to five years in federal prison.

Howard Katz, 28, stock market analyst, and David A. Baumann, 20, now serving with the Army in Korea, who have been blocked in lower court from challenging the draft law's constitutionality.

The legal positions of the four are diverse.

Miller, backed by the New York Civil Liberties Union, has said he is willing to go to jail rather than obtain a new draft card. He directly attacks the 1965 law that prohibits draft-card burning, claiming its purpose is to suppress dissent.

None of the three others claims pacifism. And none claims that he is a conscientious objector.

Mitchell says he has a moral and legal duty under the international charter which governed the trial of Nazi leaders after World War II to refuse to cooperate with the draft.

The war in Vietnam, he says, violates this and other international agreements; the Selective Service system "is the criminal in this case."

Under the Constitution, the Mitchell appeal says, Congress — not the president — has the power to declare war. The brief goes on to question whether the president may legally "send the armed forces of the United States outside the continental limits if such action is in violation of treaties and constitutional provisions."

Katz and Baumann base their argument against the draft law in the Nuernberg charter and in the 9th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

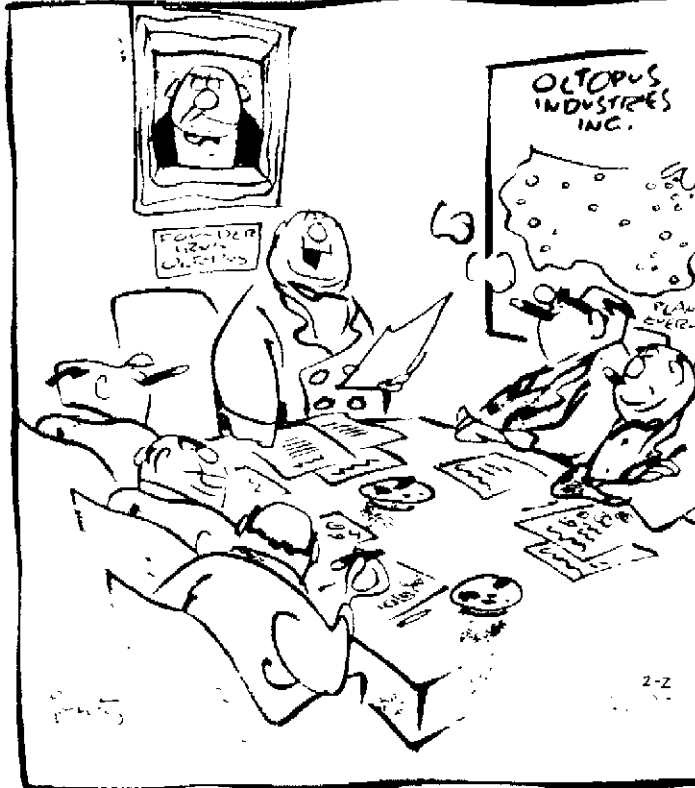

In suing to block enforcement of the draft law they named as defendants President Johnson, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, Selective Service director.

They cite the 8th article of the Nuernberg charter, which said the fact that a Nazi accused of war crimes "acted pursuant to orders of his government or of a superior shall not free him of responsibility."

And the 9th Amendment to the Constitution, they say, affords protection from government "force" represented by the Afternoon Trading Boosts Market

(c) N.Y. Times News Service

NEW YORK — A rise in afternoon trading carried the stock market to higher ground yesterday.

Following Wednesday's weaker tone, prices firmed slightly in the morning, held steady in the early afternoon and closed near the highest levels of the day. Trading volume on the New York Stock Exchange expanded to 10,72 million shares from 9,58 million Wednesday.

The Dow-Jones Industrial Average closed with a gain of 4.73 points at 853.12. The New York Stock Exchange composite index rose 0.15 points to 47.39, and Standard & Poor's 500-stock index was up 0.30 point at 86.73. The New York Times combined average rose 0.92 point to 489.83.

Advances topped declines by 687 to 439 and 70 stocks touched new 1966-67 highs, compared with 43 Wednesday. New lows eased to two-up John and Wilson—from Wednesday's four.

On the American Stock exchange the index of stock prices rose nine cents to $15.86, or 903 issues traded, 358 advances and 382 lost ground. Volume expanded to 3,644,615 from 3,208,310 shares Wednesday.

Only two of the day's ten most actively traded issues declined. A seat on the American Exchange was sold yesterday for $110,000—$10,000 above the previous sale on Jan. 16. Seats are currently $95,000 bid, $120,000 asked.

On the over-the-counter market industrial issues were mixed in selective trading.

On the big board, gains topped losses by a 4-to-1 ratio among the 15 most-active stocks. Two of the three losers on the list were affected by large-block transactions.

McDonald's, the most-active stock with 211,000 shares, traded at the day's low of 32 3/4 on a block of 202,400 shares. The stock of the hamburger-stand operator recovered to close at 33 3/4, off 1/4.

Boise Cascade, the fourth most-active issue, traded as low as 26 1/2 on a block of 130,000 shares in which Eastman Dillon, Union Securities & Co. represented both the buyer and the seller. Shares of the forest products manufacturer closed at 27, off 1/4, on total turnover of 132,500 shares.

Four savings-and-loan issues placed on the most-active list, reflecting the continuing interest in low price issues as well as the easing of pressures in money markets.

South Puerto Rico Sugar spurred 3 3/4 to 36 3/4 on news of an acquisition agreement with Gulf and Western Industries, which rose 2 1/4 to 47 1/4 as the third most-active stock. Both stocks posted new highs during the day.

Charles G. Bluhdorn, chairman of the Gulf and Western, also acknowledged that the company had acquired a "limited position" in E. W. Bliss Company, a producer of industrial machinery and equipment, but said Gulf and Western had suspended further purchases. Bliss, which rose 1 3/4 to a new high of 23 3/4 Wednesday, retreated a point to 22 3/4 yesterday.

Russians Charge China Slows Flights

By RAYMOND H. ANDERSON
(c) N.Y. Times News Service
MOSCOW — Izvestia, the government newspaper, charged last night that Communist China had hampered and endangered Soviet air transports reuniting at Peking for flights to North Vietnam.

The allegation of interference with Soviet flights to Vietnam, which are critical to Moscow's aid program in Hanoi, came amid reports that the Soviet government was preparing an emergency evacuation of dependents of the Soviet Embassy in Peking.

The safety of Russians in the Chinese capital has been jeopardized by violence and threats from Red Guards, according to Tass, the Soviet press agency.

According to Izvestia, the planes that were impounded were flying technicians and other specialists assigned to assist North Vietnam in its war struggle.

Despite the critical deterioration of Soviet-Chinese relations, Peking has continued to permit Soviet aircraft to fly over Chinese territory to North Vietnam.

The Chinese are authoritatively reported, however, to have refused Moscow on a request for unrestricted rights for an all-out airlift to Vietnam, insisting that each flight must be approved individually.

The incident at Peking Airport, protested by Izvestia, was said to have occurred Tuesday. The newspapers did not specify how many planes had been taking part in what apparently was a group flight.

Denouncing Chinese actions at the airport as a "disgusting provocation," Izvestia said that a large group of Red Guards had assembled to chant anti-Soviet slogans and to insult the Soviet people with quotations from the writings of Mao Tse-tung, chairman of the Chinese Communist party.

NASA Continuing Moon Landing Plan

By HOWARD BENEDICT
CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — While the probe of the Apollo 1 disaster continues, the space agency plans to thrust forward toward the moon — launching Lunar Orbiter 3 to locate suitable astronaut landing sites.

Until the three Apollo 1 astronauts died in their flaming spacecraft during a launch pad test last Friday, NASA was confident of landing men on the moon in 1968 or 1969.

The disaster has set back the program at least six months. A board of review reportedly is far from finding the cause of ducted "site searches" and that the mission of the third vehicle will be "site confirmation."

NASA hopes the $500-million craft will locate several acceptable areas, providing launch planners with flexibility.

Until the three Apollo 1 astronauts died in their flaming spacecraft during a launch pad test last Friday, NASA was confident of landing men on the moon in 1968 or 1969.

The disaster has set back the program at least six months. A board of review reportedly is far from finding the cause of the mysterious fire that killed Air Force Lt. Col. Virgil I. Grissom and Edward H. White II and Navy Lt. Cmdr. Roger B. Chaffee.

The board delivered an interim report yesterday to Robert C. Seamans, NASA deputy administrator, who flew here from Washington.

Seamans planned to report back to the chairman of the Senate and House Space Commit-

Quintuplets' Mother Elated; Surviving Four Given Chance

By HENRIETTA LEITH
NEW YORK (AP) — The overjoyed mother of four surviving quintuplets recommended lots of babies for all women—by fertility pills if necessary—but only "if they love them very much."

"I wanted a baby so badly and now I'm very happy," said Hildarene Harris, 31, mother of the boy and three girls born Wednesday night at Brooklyn Jewish Hospital. The fifth baby, a girl, was stillborn.

The full-term infants were given a good chance to survive. Doctors said they had no breathing difficulties.

Their outlook would be good if they got past the 40-hour mark, doctors said.

Not needing oxygen, the four babies were in plastic covered bassinets called "isolettes" which maintain temperature and humidity. The special room where they were placed, all by themselves, had a sign on the door reading "Harris Pavilion."

The first and largest baby was the boy, Lionel, who weighed 4 pounds, 12 ounces. The first girl weighed 3 pounds, 9 ounces; the second, 3 pounds, 1 ounce; and the third girl was the smallest—2 pounds 10 ounces. The girls were named Liana, Louisa and Talitha.

Their father, Lionel, 31, a $100-a-week postal clerk, passed out cigars and described himself as confused, elated and a bit worried.

"I have no plans, but because we live in four rooms, we'll need to get a bigger apartment," he said.

Mrs. Harris worried about the fact that there was not always enough heat in the apartment on Brooklyn's Eastern Parkway.

Dressed in a yellow nightgown trimmed with white lace, she talked gaily with doctors, nurses, and newsmen and waited impatiently for a chance to see her babies.

Dr. James Seley, family physician to the Negro couple and the man who delivered the babies, disclosed Mrs. Harris had been trying for two years to have a baby.

He said several attempts at drug treatment failed, and the one that succeeded was the drug clomethene citrate, distributed under the brand name Clomid. He said Mrs. Harris conceived the quintuplets four or five months after she started taking Clomid.

Milk Commission Ruling Causes More Confusion

By WILLIAM E. DEIBLER
HARRISBURG (AP) — Members of the State Milk Control Commission met with attorneys for several hours yesterday trying to decide what to do about a disputed Commonwealth Court ruling that could affect retail milk prices in four areas of the state.

The opinions, handed down Wednesday by Judge William W. Lipsitt, ordered the commission to revoke price increases of one-half to one cent a quart authorized last April 5 for the suburban Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Erie and Scranton-Wilkes-Barre milk marketing areas.

However, the commission contends that the court order is meaningless since the April price regulation was "superceded and rendered moot" by another price order issued by the commission last August.

J. Lin Huber, commission chairman, said that "as a layman, I don't know exactly what they mean."

"There is some difference of legal opinion on what the rulings mean," Huber continued. "Our attorneys are conferring now, and I hope to know later in the day what they decide."

In a companion ruling, Judge

Lipsitt had upheld the validity of the commission's August price order by dismissing challenges filed by the City of Pittsburgh and Allegheny County and Henry P. Otto, a Pittsburgh milk dealer.

The commission contended Wednesday that the latter ruling, in effect, made Judge Lipsitt's ruling on the April price order meaningless.

The August order, they said, established a new price structure for all of the state's 15 milk marketing areas and nullified all previous price orders.

However, in still another opinion Judge Lipsitt dismissed a commission plea that the court modify an order it had issued last Sept. 27 directing the commission to revoke the April price order for the Pittsburgh marketing area.

Immediately after the opinions were issued Wednesday, William D. Morgan, commission attorney, said that he did not automatically reduce milk prices, but ordered the commission to take some kind of action within 30 days.

Romney Asks for First Michigan Income Tax

By WILLIAM HEATH
LANSING, Mich. (AP) — George W. Romney yesterday recommended a record $1.1-billion state budget for the next fiscal year and asked the legislature to approve Michigan's first state income tax to pay for it.

Romney, considered a top contender for the 1968 Republican presidential nomination, became the first Michigan governor to seek a billion-plus budget.

It is his third try for an income tax.

The governor said new sources of revenue are needed to meet soaring state spending. The former American Motors president cited a 700,000-unit decline in auto production — Michigan's most important industry — and equated it to a slump in sales tax revenues.

The tax plan proposed a 2½ per cent personal income tax, a 5 per cent corporate income tax and an 8 per cent tax on financial institutions and a 3-cent boost in the cigarette tax.

How the legislature reacts to Romney's proposals is expected to affect his chances for the presidential nomination and his yet-to-be-made decision on whether to seek it.

Republicans and Democrats in the legislature were cautious in their initial response to his budget proposal.

Senate Majority Leader Emil Lockwood and Senate President Pro Tem Thomas Schweigert, both Republicans, described the program as "realistic" and "courageous."

But Lockwood said he strongly favors a constitutional amendment to let the people put a ceiling on the income tax. Michigan's four-year-old constitution, which Romney helped get adopted, forbids a graduated income tax.

Heart Surgery Prolongs Many Lives

February is "Heart Month." It is a time for gratification on the part of those whose lives have been prolonged through open heart surgery or other medical or surgical help.

It also is a time for serious meditation by others on the great work which is being done to beat down heart disease, one of the most lethal enemies. And a time to think on how all may assist in this great campaign.

It is interesting to note that February also is the second anniversary of the launching of the Cardiovascular Unit of Hamot Hospital at Erie as an Open Heart Center. Heart patients have been treated from Warren, Erie, Crawford, Venango and Mercer Counties, and also from Ohio and New York states.

One of the recent patients at Hamot, who underwent successful open heart surgery was Daniel Carr, son of USAF Capt. and Mrs. Richard A. Carr, and a grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Dodge of Penn Laurel Motel.

The operation, performed by Dr. George J. D'Angelo at Hamot on Dec. 22, corrected a congenital defect of the heart. The youth enjoyed a rapid recovery and was able to return to his studies at Beaty Junior High School on January 17.

Capt. Carr, the boy's father, incidentally, had served in Vietnam for 10½ months, returning home just before Danny's operation.

He has been transferred to Langley Air Force Base where the family will move in the early future. Danny naturally is most thankful as are his parents for the success of the heart operation which has restored him to good health and normal play.

Another youngster of the Warren area who has enjoyed similarly good fortune through open heart surgery is Tommy Wolfe, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Wolfe, of 506 Buchanan st. He is 10½ years old.

He underwent surgery to correct a congenital defect of the heart while a small child, at Children's Hospital, Buffalo, N.Y., in 1958, by Dr. Murray Anderson.

He is now a fifth grade student at Jefferson School. He played football last fall for Jefferson and is an enthusiastic member of the Warren YMCA swimming team. He, too, has much to be thankful for and is indeed grateful, as are his parents, for the wonders of heart surgery and the successful recovery which followed his operation.

Hamot Hospital at Erie, which is the most widely sought haven of hope for heart defect patients in the area, is one of 134 centers aided by the John A. Hartford Foundation. The Erie institution was given a grant for development of cardiovascular diagnostic treatment and research in 1961. It was approved as a diagnostic and treatment center in 1963 by the Technical Consultant Committee of the Department of Health of Pennsylvania and a year ago last February the same committee approved it as an Open Heart Center.

While the first closed heart surgery in Erie was carried out in 1959, the first open heart surgery with a heart-lung machine (mechanical heart and lungs) was performed in 1962.

Interesting to the layman is the difference between closed and open heart surgery. In closed heart surgery, the defect is inside the heart but the surgeon does not have to make a large opening in the heart to repair it. He may reach the defect through a tiny incision in the heart and make repairs by sense of touch rather than direct vision. In open heart surgery, the surgeon opens the heart and corrects the defect under direct vision, while blood-flow through the heart is greatly reduced or stopped altogether with use of the heart-lung machine (a machine that takes over the operation of the heart and lungs). This procedure is used when there is a complicated defect or a group of defects, which can only be repaired if a surgeon has all of the following conditions under which to work: as low or completely stopped heart and a comparatively long time in which to make repairs—ten minutes to several hours.

Briefly an explanation of the services of the Cardiovascular Unit are:

Patients who have a heart block undergo surgery to implant an artificial electric pacemaker under the chest (or at the neck) so that it regularly stimulates the heart to beat. Its main purpose is to maintain a regular heart rhythm in persons whose natural pacemaking mechanisms have been slowed.

Coronary arteriograms are performed on patients having arteriosclerosis (hardening of the arteries). The artery is reamed out, enlarged slightly to prevent clotting.

If a heart has an irregular rapid rhythm, "cardioversion" will restore it to a normal rhythm by giving it an electric shock.

The Warren County Heart Association is currently conducting its annual campaign for funds. It is through such funds that much of the research into heart disease and the actual treatment of patients are made possible. A contribution to the Heart Fund this month will allow all to lend a hand in the great fight which is being waged to reduce the heavy toll taken by the disease each year.

SECTION II CHAMPIONSHIP RIDING ON OUTCOME

Warren's Grapplers at Meadville Tonight

The stage is set for the most crucial wrestling match of the season in Section II tonight when Warren's matmen travel to Meadville.

The Bulldog grapplers, defending conference champions, are 9-0 on the season and their victory string covers 24 straight matches, the longest in Northwestern Pennsylvania. Meadville is 3-0 in Section II competition.

The Dragons sport seven triumphs against three defeats and have a six-match win streak going. Their conference mark is 4-0.

The Section II crown will be riding on tonight's match. The title was also on the line when Warren and Meadville met on the Dragons' mats last season. The Bulldogs poured on the power in the upper weights to take a 23-18 decision, winning the conference championship after only three years in the sport.

Coach Dick Lumley lost his "big boys" to graduation, but the Bulldogs started this season with 10 returning lettermen and are better balanced than last year's squad.

Key returnees are Dan Coon (103), Ron Kightlinger (112), Doug Higby (127), Dave Coccolin (133), Ron Johnson (138) and Rick Gray (145).

Lumley and Dragon coach Mike Weber both look for a close match. Each figures on four or five definite victories, with the final result hinging on several matches rated "toss-ups."

Each indicated last evening that he will go with his strongest lineup tonight, with the only possible changes at 127 and 133. Weber has switched Jim Mead and Steve Kaiser between the two weights all season and had definite plans for them tonight.

Lumley, however, may drop Coccolin to 127 and move Higby up a notch. If the Bulldog coach makes the move, Weber will probably change his lineup accordingly.

A class-by-class comparison is listed below, with a short description of the Meadville grappler, how both boys fared in last season's match and finally their individual performance against a common opponent, Oil City. Warren defeated the Oilers by a 28-16 score last Friday and the Bulldogs tripped them earlier in the season, 28-11.

95-pounds—Frank Cataldo vs. Mike Mottillo, an improved wrestler over last season when he wrestled 88-pounds and lost to Dana Sorensen, 2-1. (decided Dave Harvey of OC, 11-7; Cataldo dec. Terry Caldwell, 11-1).

103-pounds—Dana Sorensen vs. Dan Coon, a very strong 103-pounder, lost to Cataldo in '66, 4-3. (dec. Oilers' Jack Stralko, 8-4; Sorensen routed Stralko, 10-2.)

112-pounds—Brad Waxman vs. Ron Kightlinger, an improved, good wrestler, was decided by Doug Sorensen last season, 3-0. Waxman did not wrestle varsity. (blanked Ted Rudolph of Oil City, 6-0; Waxman was pinned by Rudolph.)

120-pounds—Doug Sorensen vs. Dennis Shaffer, a transfer from California where he lettered for three seasons. (dec. Oil City's Walt Campman, 8-4; Sorensen pinned Tom Wilkinson.)

127-pounds (or 133)—Steve Kaiser vs. Doug Higby, a strong, quick wrestler, lost to Harold Cummings last season, 12-3. Kaiser did not wrestle varsity. (defeated Gary Wright of the Oilers, 6-3; Kaiser whipped Nick Collins, 5-3).

133-pounds (or 127)—Jim Mead vs. Dave Coccolin, an outstanding wrestler, perhaps the Bulldogs' best, edged Bill Shaffer, 3-2 in last year's match at 120. Mead did not wrestle varsity. (dec. Collins, 6-1; Mead lost to John Hogue, 13-2. Hogue did not wrestle against Meadville.)

138-pounds—Bill Shaffer vs. Ron Johnson, another outstanding grappler, very fast, still not up to top form after recovering from a football injury, shutout Al Brown in '66, 3-0. (did not wrestle against Oil City; Shaffer beat Ken Young, 8-2.)

145-pounds—Mike Maines vs. Rick Gray, a strong, quick, capable wrestler, handled Kip Morgan, 10-6 last year. Maines did not wrestle varsity. (drew with Oilers' Lee Watkins, 3-3 at 154; Maines won over Tim Hildebrand, 6-3.)

154-pounds—Corky Greenwood vs. Martin Davis, a strong transfer last season from Erie East, neither wrestled in last year's match. (lost to Young of Oilers, 6-4; Greenwood dec. Watkins, 3-0.)

165-pounds—Bob Thompson vs. Clint Chess, first-year man, but very strong and aggressive, neither wrestled in last season's varsity match. (whipped by OC's Bruce Barr, 10-3; Thompson was pinned by Barr.)

180-pounds—Darrell Pusateri vs. Steve Vozar, a slimmed-down heavyweight, capable wrestler, did not wrestle varsity in '66. Pusateri lost to heavyweight Jim Manning, 6-0. (blanked Oil City's Dave Dejo, 8-0; Pusateri pinned Dejo.)

Heavyweight—Lee Bryan vs. Bill Terrill, another first-year man, but big (about 240) and rapidly improving, neither wrestled in last year's varsity match. (lost to Neil Rosen of Oilers, 8-7; Rosen dec. Bryan, 9-5.)

The Oil City comparison points up, again, to a very close match. Oiler ace Johnny Hogue did not see action against Meadville, but Ron Johnson of the Bulldogs was not in against Oil City, an offsetting advantage.

Weber stated Wednesday night at the Sports Boosters meeting that a victory for the locals would depend on how much they wanted to win. It also may depend on how much the Bulldogs want to retain the conference title. They have one more Section II match, against Corry, but the championship will be decided tonight.

The varsity bouts will get under way at 8 p.m., with the junior varsity at 6:30. An exhibition 88-pound match will be wrestled tonight with Gail Sudul of the Dragons going against Steve Drake. The result will not count in the varsity score.

for him to prove that statement. Starting lineup for the Orange and Black will be the same as usual, with high-scoring Wayne Swanson leading the way. He will be joined by Ray Morrison, Jeff Scallise, Robbie Hart and Mark McGuire.

Brockway centers its offense around the scoring of Tom Green. He usually gets help from Pat Paruso and Chuck Grubbs. Other starters are John Brumberg and Chuck Haag. The Oilers are 15-1 for the season. Their only loss was in the Bucktail Tournament to the State Class C champions of last year, Williamsburg.

In the Upper Allegheny Valley League, Youngsville will try to get back on the winning trail with a win over Eisenhower.

In order to post the win the Eagles will have to contain high-scoring Bob Burlingame. The Knights 6-5 junior center has been on a scoring spree of late. In his last three games, and four of the last five, he has been over 30 points.

Coach Bill Sherwood will give his star aid by starting Dave Van Cise, Barton Lohnes, Bill McFarland and Gary Fry.

In the first meeting between the schools at Eisenhower, the Eagles posted an 81-34 win. Burlingame was held to nine points in that game.

Youngsville was led by Ron Knapp with 20 points, Milt Johnson with 18 and Gary Carter with 10.

Coach Paul Siegel of the Eagles will insert Bob Chisholm and Denny Walton into the starting lineup with the other three cagers.

Tidoute will have an off night tonight before getting back in the battle Tuesday at East Forest.

The Bulldogs haven't been the Bulldogs of old. They have been forced to go right to the wire to win three of their loop games. Meadville had to go in overtime to beat Franklin. They managed to beat Titusville by five points, on a late spurt, and came back to down Oil City by one in their last, outing Tuesday night.

In the first game between the two teams, Hunter and Buchanan played almost even. The Meadville star had 28 points and Hunter had 22 before fouling out in the third period.

Randy Jones came into his own as a Dragon in this game with 15 points. Tonight he will have to add a little defense to the agenda as he is scheduled to guard Buchanan.

In the Allegheny Mountain League the Wolverines of Sheffield will have revenge in their eyes tonight as they host the Brockway Rovers.

Brockway humiliated the Wolverines 70-28 the first time around. Coach Nick Creola of Sheffield said that he would never again be beaten that bad. Tonight would be a fine chance Fifty-nine junior high grapplers will compete for nine championships in the second annual JH Wrestling Tournament at Warren Area High School tomorrow.

The number, which includes nine boys from Youngsville's first-year mat program, represents more than double the entries in last season's tourney.

Preliminaries are scheduled to start at 1:30, with wrestling on two mats. Eighteen matmen will advance to the finals at 7 p.m. tomorrow evening. The program will also include a spotlight "Parade of Champions."

Admission for each session will be 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for students.

The boys, who have been practicing all season long for this event, are coached by Lee Chew and George Knopik at Beaty and Jack Creek at Youngsville. The latter is a physics teacher at WAHS and has been helping the Eagle grapplers get started in the mat sport.

Special coaches, all members of the Dragon varsity wrestling team, will handle the matmen in the tourney. Bill Shaffer, Frank Cataldo, Corky Greenwood and Darrell Pusateri will be assigned 15 boys each to guide during the event.

Officials for the afternoon bouts will be Dragon grapplers Doug and Dana Sorensen, Ray Lowe and Craig White. The evening session will be worked by Warren head coach Mike

Officials for the afternoon bouts will be Dragon grapplers Doug and Dana Sorensen, Ray Lowe and Craig White. The evening session will be worked by Warren head coach Mike

Weber and Hal Miller, former Dragon mat mentor.

Massengale, Littler Lead Close Field in Bob Hope

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer
PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)

The wind blew, the sand flew and the scores mounted yesterday as Gene Littler and Don Massengale tied for first place in the second round of the $110,000 Bob Hope Desert Golf Classic.

The 36-year-old Littler, whose last big victory was in the World Series of Golf last year, shot a five-under-par 67, and Massengale, the pride of Jacksboro, Tex., came in with a 70, both for 139 totals.

Wind that came in gusts and blasts started gathering momentum shortly before action started in the second day of this attraction.

There was a four-way tie at 140, while the four stars of the bulky field—Jack Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer, Billy Casper and defending champion Doug Sanders—suffered varying luck.

Casper, who had a respectable first-round 69, followed with a disheartening 75 to equal par 144.

Nicklaus reduced his opening effort by five strokes for a 70 and was tied at 145 with 13 others, including Palmer, who had a 72.

Sanders' 73 gave him 143 and a tie with Jack McGowan, Krank Boynton and George Archer.

The quartet at 140 consisted of Lionel Hebert and Jacky Cupit, each with a 72, Dale Douglass, 70 and Paul Bondeson, 67.

Jay Dolan, the first-round leader with a 66, led off with two straight bogies and wound up with a 75 for 141.

There were nine in the 141 bracket, including Joe Campbell and Paul Harney, each of whom had a 78.

All agreed that the weather was anything but dandy, but Littler said it didn't bother him too much.

"This was the best putting round of the year by far for me. As a matter of fact, it was my best round of the year—and my only good one," said Littler.

The one-time U.S. Open champion had nine one-putt greens and was both surprised and delighted when he added them up. He said he took some putting lessons last week and is now using a shorter and firmer stroke.

Nicklaus commented: "If I had sunk about three of the putts that I should have made, I'd be back in it with a 67. Now, I've got to go out and work tomorrow."

Nicklaus missed at least three putts for birdies from 10 feet or under.

Massengale, who led after two rounds at Los Angeles last week, played even par except for two holes. He sank six and eight-foot putts on the 15th and 18th holes, playing the back nine first for his 36-34-70.

Par for all of the four courses involved is 36-36-72.

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—The American Basketball Association, a second major professional basketball league, was formally launched yesterday with the naming of George Mikan, long-time star of the Minneapolis Lakers, as commissioner.

Gary Davidson, one of four men backing the Dallas franchise in the 10-team league and president of the ABA, announced the selection of Mikan at a press conference here.

The league will operate with two five-team divisions, New York, Pittsburgh, Indianapolis,

Journey to

Falconer Tonite

Eisenhower's wrestling team travels to Falconer, N.Y., tonight with hopes of keeping its Southern Tier title express on course.

Knight mat coach Don Johns expects a tough match, calling for "the best effort of the season."

The only changes Johns has made in the lineup will be in the upper weights: Harry Critzer will drop down to 165, with Tim Martin taking over at 180.

The Knights, 6-1 in the league, have to win the remainder of their matches and hope loop-leading Randolph gets knocked off to claim the conference crown.

Providence

Rolls Over

Gannon '5

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP)—Providence took an easy 92-66 basketball win from Gannon of Erie, Pa., last night, as Jimmy Walker hit for 18 points and put on a display of ball handling and passing.

Providence, 10th ranked in The Associated Press major college basketball poll, boosted its season record to 13-3, Gannon is now 8-7.

Mike Riordan led the scoring for the Friars, followed by Walker, Al Hayes with 14 and Stu Kerner with 12. Providence broke fast, hitting for 19 of 28 field goal attempts in the first half, finishing the half with a 43-22 lead.

Providence emptied the bench after opening up its wide margin.

For Gannon, Don Ruminski and Larry Daley both scored 16 points, while Ron Johnson scored 9 before a crowd of 3,300.

Cage Clinic for

Gra-Y Tomorrow

The Warren YMCA announced yesterday that it would hold the second annual Gra-Y Basketball clinic for all boys in the Gra-Y Basketball league tomorrow morning at 10:00 a.m. at the Warren Area High School Gym. It will end at 11:30 a.m.

Boys will get a chance to learn the fundamentals of basketball, including dribbling, passing, defense, and shooting. Joe Schantz, head basketball coach at WAHS, will conduct the clinic with members of the Varsity squad.

All Gra-Y boys should try to attend this clinic, which proved to be very worthwhile last year. Each team should wear their basketball uniforms.

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Yankees baseball club signed five of their farm hands to contracts yesterday — one outfielder and four pitchers.

The outfielder is Bob Biletnikoff, who played with Ft. Lauderdale and Toledo. The pitchers are John Schroepel, Gary Grouard, and Bill Burbach.

Ind., Minneapolis and New Orleans, La., will have franchises in the Eastern Division. Western teams will play in Dallas, and Houston, Tex., Kansas City, Oakland and Anaheim, Calif.

Davidson said the ABA plans to begin playing next fall and that expansion to other cities may come later.

Houston—William Witmore, Charles Frazier and Cloyce Box, Sam Houston Coliseum. Anaheim—Art Kim, James Ackerman, Anaheim Convention Center.

Dallas—August Speth, Davidson, John Klug, James Peters, Dallas Memorial Auditorium.

New York—Art Brown, Mark Bimstein, Max Zaslofsky, Singer Bowl.

Kansas City—James Trimble, Municipal Auditorium. Oakland—Pat Boone, Ken Davidson, Dennis Murphy, Oakland Alameda County Coliseum.

Wrestling Team

Dropped by SF

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The San Francisco Olympic Club has dropped its support of the wrestling team which has held the United States national championship the past six years.

Stanton Haight, club president, said yesterday the action was taken for budgetary reasons. Also dropped was the club's volleyball squad.

The decision on wrestling came as a surprise, since Olympic Club coach Bill Smith already has been selected as coach of the United States Olympic Games team for 1968.

Haight said Smith is expected to remain at the club.

In past years, the Olympic Club has dropped such sports as football, track and field, and basketball.

Downey is the son of the famous singer. Zaslofsky was a star in the early days of the rival National Basketball Association. He works for Brown, who owns ABC Freight Forwarding in New York.

The other owners are mostly businessmen and builders in their local areas.

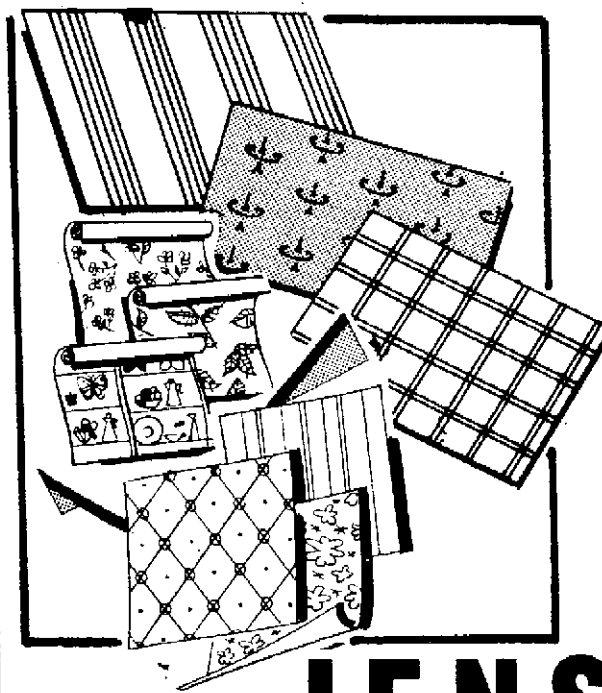

John Murphy, brother of one of the Oakland owners, said Wednesday the league would go after some of the superstars now playing in the NBA.

Murphy indicated Wilt Chamberlain, star center of the Philadelphia 76ers and others will switch leagues.

"We know he'll be in our league," Murphy said, "and we are assured other superstars will be in also."

AT K OF C MEET IN NEW YORK

Milers Clash on Boards Tonight

By RON RAPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—Twice
Ergas Leps has rung great races

in New York Knights of Columbus indoor track meets and twice he has been beaten.

So he could hardly have been surprised when Australia's Kerry O'Brien, the hottest distance runner around these days, decided to run the mile opposite him in the Knights of Columbus meet tonight at Madison Square Garden.

O'Brien set records at two miles in two indoor meets last month but decided to run the mile today and the two-mile tomorrow in the Philadelphia Inquirer Games.

Leps, a 27-year-old Toronto high school teacher, ran 4:03.6 in the KC games here three years ago, a very good time but not quite up to Tom O'Hara's 3:58.5. And last year Leps ran his fastest 1,000—2:08.8—but

Stan Convinces Two Cards to Ink Pacts

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Stan Musial signed his first ballplayers yesterday since taking over as general manager of the St.
Louis Baseball Cardinals.

There are infielders Dal Maxvill and Jerry Buchek. The players came to terms for the 1967 season after a short talk with Musial.

Tom Farrell picked precisely that race to run his fastest 1,000 with 2:08.7.

O'Brien and Leps have met once before in the mile, in the British Empire Games at Kingston, Jamaica. O'Brien ran what is still his best mile,
4:02.7, but Leps was faster at 4:01.

Also in the event are Charlie Christmas, a 4:01 miler from Abilene Christian, Bob Zieminski of Georgetown, Tom Donnelly of Villanova, O'Brien ran
what is still his best mile,
4:02.7, but Leps was faster at 4:01.

The 600 field, originally the best in the meet, which is expected to be seen by about 10, 000 fans, was hurt with the loss of indoor record holder Martin McGrady, out with an inflamed tendon. Also, Theron Lewis, who set an indoor mark in the 440 last week, is doubtful.

Ricardo Urbina of Georgetown and Jim Kemp of the Los Angeles 49ers Track Club, are favored now.

Mel Pender, winner of two sprints since returning from a tour with the Army in Vietnam, heads the 50-yard dash entries, along with George Anderson of the Houston Striders and Jim Lee of Maryland.

Noel Carroll of Ireland, the European indoor 800-meter

champ, tops the 880 entries along with Pete Farrell of Notre Dame, brother of Tom, who had been entered himself but pulled out claiming he wasn't in top shape.

Bill Crothers of Toronto, with an impressive string of Madison Square Garden victories, is in the 1,000 along with West Germany's Franz-Josef Kemper, co-holder of the world 1,000-meter record.

Dave Ellis of Toronto and Eamon O'Reilly of Irvington,
N.J., lead the two-mile entrants.
Russ Rogers of New York's Grand Street Boys heads the 60-yard high-hurdles field and Charlie Mays of the Grand Utrecht Boys is favored in the 500.

Mel Hein Jr. of the Southern California Striders and Vince Bizz rro of Villanova are in the pole vault and John Thomas, now with the Boston AA, is in the high jump.

Sled Dog Races Set Next Weekend at Cherry Creek

The Western New York Sports Season will hit another high point on the 11th and 12th of February in the beautiful area around Cherry Creek, N.Y.
(Home of Cockaigne.) Sled dogs will be making their runs for glory in one of the biggest races of the year. They will be tough and hardened from the season's racing, the competition at its rugged, and teams and drivers at their peak of skill and conditioning. The always-eager Huskies, seeming to know that the imminent spring will end their outings, are keener than ever to go. The cheers and enthusiasm of the crowds add to their eagerness.

The Race Trail is believed to be one of the best in the area, laid out to the advantage of both teams and spectators. It is approximately 10 2-10 miles long, over hard packed roads, and woods trails. It is designed to make the driver's skill a very positive factor. Proof positive has shown that such a varied trail interests the Huskies, causing a speedier and more spectacular race.

Dan Gurney Leading Pack at Continental

By F. T. MACFEELEY
DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP)— Hard-charging Dan Gurney came strong in the late minutes of qualifying for the 24-hour Daytona Continental yesterday and put a Ford Mark II in front of the pack for tomorrow afternoon's start, turning a record lap at better than 119 miles per hour.

Gurney, a perennial front runner from Costa Mesa, Calif., was one of 10 drivers to beat the old record of 116,434 m.p.h. set by the late Ken Miles last year in an original Mark II.

Gurney, and A. J. Foyt, Houston, Tex., are driving partners in the new version—of which six are entered and five will start among the first 10.

In his fastest lap around a 3.81-mile road course, Gurney averaged 119.165 m.p.h.

Jim Hall, Midland, Tex., millionaire, who designed and developed the Chevrolet-powered Chaparral, had the second fastest qualifying lap at 118.897.

He drove the newest and most radical of his automatic transmission cars, an F model with a wing, called an air foil, mounted parallel to the ground two feet above a lowslung white body.

Pedro Rodriguez from Mexico City registered 118.856 m.p.h., in the fastest Ferrari, beating even the factory Ferrari's newest pair of P4 prototypes. Rodriguez' car is a similar but not quite as new version and is

Coon Hunter's Lament

Harold McCombs of Chandler's Valley is an ardent coon hunter, also a committeeman of the Erie Coon and Fox Club. And as such, Harold resents the attitude of the many sportsmen who consider the raccoon a pernicious predator that should be eradicated in the interest of "gamier" species.

While I do not agree with all of the points
he makes in a lengthy article he submitted to support his views on the subject, I do share his enthusiasm for the sport of coon hunting and advise the hunter who hasn't tried this particular sport to at least have a go at it.
He may be pleasantly surprised, and be far more amenable to Harold's claim that the raccoon should have more protection than it gets under existing laws.

As I have stated, the article is a lengthy one for the space available in this column.
For this reason I have been forced to "cut it" to fit, but have done my best to retain its values as they relate to Harold's personal views.

The first "cut" consisted of the opening paragraphs wherein the author compares the "game" value of the raccoon with that of the pheasant and grouse, those species that are most affected by the predatory habits of the coon. And draws attention to the fact that the house cat, which outnumbered the raccoon in most communities, is a far more vicious predator which often commits the act
the coon is blamed for.

Starting with a mid-article paragraph, Harold says, "Our sportsmen are divided in groups according to preference of sports or the physical ability to participate, but all with one common aim—the enjoyment of the outdoors. Why then do we have the misunderstanding to create a gap between groups to be in stubborn opposition with the other? Is this selfishness?"

"It is no mystery why we have trouble getting legislation suitable to all. Lack of sportsmanship and cooperation has robbed the fraternity of more than all of the natural predators, which by nature creates a reasonable balance."

In the next couple of paragraphs, Harold supports the right of every hunter to hunt the game of his choice, claims the right of "conservative" protection for all animals that are hunted as a sport, and objects to "—a certain element of thoughtless and promiscuous hunters, including those who go to the woods with a gun on weekends during the summer."

Further along in the article, Harold states,
"Since the removal of protection on the raccoon in this state, its numbers have been reduced to an alarming low."

"Several reasons account for this of which only one could have occurred had the controlled season not been removed. True to tradition, when a wild animal (species) becomes numerous beyond a certain point of balance, a disease will ensue. This did occur in our raccoon in Pennsylvania and during this period, coupled with the practice of cutting all trees with holes and decay (den trees) that renders the tree worthless from the standpoint of lumber, our beautiful and largest tree-dwelling animal has been forced to, in a great part, live in the ground like a rodent.

"Inexperienced youngsters have been attracted by the seemingly over abundance of the raccoon and have taken the liberty afforded by the removal of all protection and, with spotlight and automobile, combed the roads looking for mamma raccoon and her babies out looking for a morsel of food.
When located, they would all be killed and the number added to previous and subsequent occasions, with the largest total killed considered an honor to the killer. Who in the sportsman fraternity wants to take the credit for such indiscriminate killing, even if coon hunting is not a part of their chosen sport?"

"Since we are bounded by three states, all of whom have a protective season on their raccoons, could you conceive that many hunters from these states buy a license for twenty-five dollars, which many of them would buy for deer later, come over here in September and October as often as they wish and take as many raccoon as they can find. Those from a distance come prepared to stay for two or three weeks. This open invitation provides an opportunity to bring in dogs and train them by catching these raccoons during the season when they are most easily caught; something they cannot do in their home states."

Harold closes his article with a plea to all sportsmen to adjust their thinking so that the interests of one group of hunters will be the concern of all groups of hunters.
That the present generation set an example for coming generations—"so that they can be able to cooperate with all groups of sportsmen to better the habitat of all wildlife and to control legislation for that purpose."

WARREN, PA., FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 3, 1967

Youth Held In Burglary Sentenced

Four persons appeared for arraignment before Judge Alexander C. Flick Jr. yesterday afternoon with three of them asking immediate sentencing.

A young man from the state of Georgia, who had been in the Warren area since November of last year, charged with burglary, pleaded guilty and was sentenced to serve not less than one month and not more than three months in the county jail with credit for 13 days served.

Michael O'Neal Waigham, will be paroled at the end of one month to Chief Probation Officer L. E. Linder, but will be turned over to federal authorities on a detainer filed following his arrest here Jan. 20, by Chief Richard E. Hegerty. Waigham, according to the detainer, is wanted as a federal parole violator.

The defendant was apprehended by Hegerty after a burglary at the home of Dennis Ferrie, RD 1, Russell, where car accessories, a small amount of cash and two guns were taken on January 18. Neighbors reported seeing a 1957 yellow Mercury parked on the road near the Ferrie residence on the day of the burglary.

Subsequent investigation by the chief deputy led to the arrest of Waigham after he was located at the home of a local girl and Hegerty learned the guns and other stolen items had been sold at various locations. Paul E. Powell, Cheswick, Pa., charged with driving during suspension, entered a plea of nolo contendere and was ordered to pay a $100 fine, costs and three days in jail. Merle W. Tucker, RD 1, Tusville, charged with issuing a worthless check Dec. 7, 1965 at Ashbaugh's Service Station in Tidoute, had already made restitution, was ordered to pay costs, $100 fine and serve two days in jail with credit for one. Evelyn Adams, of 330 Main St., Tidoute, charged with issuing worthless checks, entered a plea of guilty and will be sentenced at a later date.

Five men are to appear for sentencing before Judge Flick at 10 a.m. today.

REA Given Big Loan To Expand

The Rural Electrification Administration, according to Congressman Joseph P. Vigorito, has approved a loan authorization of $576,000 for various system improvements in the North-western Rural Electric Cooperative.

The loan authorization, however, has very little to do with the Warren County Rural Electric Co-op, according to Manager Maxwell Rhodes.

The funds will be used for three different but related projects, according to Vigorito and William C. Wenner, executive director of the NRECA of Cambridge Springs.

The first project will be to construct 16 miles of distribution lines to serve 500 new customers. Secondly, the co-op will use part of the funds to finance overall system improvements which includes 11 miles of new tie lines and conversion of 19 miles of existing lines and related equipment.

Finally the co-op will build a new 1,833 KVA distribution substation at Tammarack.

Branch Offices To Issue Auto Tags Proposed

State Senator Richard C. Frame has introduced a bill to decentralize Pennsylvania's Bureau of Motor Vehicles.

Frame's bill, Senate Bill No. 114, would provide that there be established branch offices for the Bureau of Motor Vehicles in a number of locations throughout the Commonwealth convenient to persons having business with the bureau. As of now, the bureau functions only from Harrisburg.

Under this proposal, the branch offices would be able to accept applications for title registration, registration plates, learner's permits and operator's licenses and issue them locally as is presently done in a number of other states.

In advancing the proposal, Senator Frame told the Senate that "... branch offices would decentralize and provide far greater efficiency and much less confusion for the Commonwealth."

The Articles of Confederation were adopted by Congress in 1777, but not ratified by the states until 1781.

Man Held For Holdup Warrenite

JAMESTOWN, N.Y. — Percy W. Graves, 39, of Jamestown, was charged with the Wednesday night armed robbery of a Warren, Pa. man.

City detectives accused Graves of robbing Lloyd E. Peterson, 55, of $155 in cash. Peterson told detectives he was about to enter his car in a municipal parking lot near the Greyhound bus station when the robber appeared, pointed a gun at him and ordered him to drive to the foot of W. 100th st. Peterson said he was then ordered to remove his trousers and underclothing. The thief fled with the clothing and money which was in the trousers.

Signals Crossed?

Everett Atwell, who resides on the Chapman Dam rd., called yesterday to advise that in his neighborhood, the groundhog and robin red-breast apparently got their signals crossed as to which was to predict the weather. Atwell spotted a robin perched in an apple tree about 9 a.m.

Road Fund Cutback Is Scored

ERIE — The president of the American Automobile Association (AAA) took sharp issue with President Johnson's $1.1 billion cutback in highway construction funds and labeled the action as "arbitrary and mysterious" during a luncheon address delivered here.

"First of all," said George M. Fraumeni, "it comes at a time when there is an unprecedented emphasis on highway safety. Yet we know that good roads of the interstate type save lives. It is estimated that — when completed — the 41,000 mile interstate highway system will save 8,000 lives a year or about one life for every five miles of road we build."

"Moreover," he said, "other federal highway programs, the Appalachian highway undertaking, and highway beautification, which would cost $3 billion and all of which add up to the federal treasury deficit — have not been touched."

Fraumeni of Buffalo, N.Y., spoke to the Erie AAA Club.

He said the cutback will reduce Pennsylvania's allotment of federal highway funds for the current fiscal year from the originally planned $205 million to $153 million.

Of the $153 million left, he said, about $75 million had been obligated by Nov. 30, leaving less than $79 million for the remainder of the fiscal year ending June 30.

Sound Warning Swindle Attempt Through Medicare

OIL CITY — The District Social Security office in Oil City has issued a warning to area residents concerning a new type of confidence men who attempt to swindle elderly persons in connection with the new Medicare program.

These con artists reportedly represent themselves as employees of the Social Security Administration and say they are authorized to sell and receive payment for health insurance in advance.

Stephen G. Sestrich, district manager, urged all residents to make full identification in such instances. He said that qualified representatives do not resort these precautions nor do they charge or accept fees.

Dollar Day Sale Opens Here Today

With practically all stores in town participating, Warren merchants are holding their semi-annual Dollar Day Sale today and Saturday.

Twice a year, the local merchants stage Dollar Day Sales and numerous items have been marked down for the two-day event.

Insurance Man Wins Citation for Sales

Page Norcross of the Insurance Company of North America paid tribute to Creed A. Erickson of the Creed A. Erickson Agency in presenting a check to Arthur Brusco, CARE representative of the Pittsburgh Region. The donation is being applied to the cost of a new school in Honduras. Mr. Norcross explained that this is the second year that INA has asked its agents to give to a person-to-person donation to humanity.

Probe Metropolis For DuBois Area

DUBOIS — Is the Modern Metropolis for the DuBois Area fact or fiction?

Is it animal, vegetable or mineral?

You'll know soon. A blue-ribbon panel of inquiry was formed Wednesday night to explore the sources of the announcement that the DuBois-Falls Creek is the logical place for the New City needed in Western Pennsylvania.

PANEL DISCUSSION ON HEART DISEASE

A group of physicians will participate in a panel discussion to answer questions on heart disease and services of the Warren County Heart Association, Sunday, Feb. 5, at 2 p.m., over Station WNAE-WRRN. Pictured is Dr. J. T. Valone who discusses the death rate from heart disease in Warren County the past year with members of the panel, left to right, Dr. John T. Robertson, Dr. Raymond R. Lowe, Dr. Richard Peters, who will act as moderator, and Dr. Valone. (Photo by Mansfield)

Trend Radio Will Build TV Station

Trend Radio Inc., operators of Station WKSN, Jamestown, has been granted permission to build an ultra high frequency television station to operate on Channel 6 in Jamestown.

The agreement provides that Trend Radio will pay James Broadcasting $40,151 to cover part of the latter firm's expense for seeking the television channel as well as a fair market value for the antenna site owned by James Broadcasting. The site is located near the intersection of the Hunt Road and Southwest Drive in the town of Ellicott.

Under the terms of the agreement James Broadcasting has agreed to withdraw its application for a TV station.

Lowell W. Paxson, president and general manager of Trend Radio Inc., said his company was looking forward to the task of building the television station. The plans are nearly complete and will be made public within a few weeks.

Youngsville Club Hears About Forest Operation

Donald Gorton, U.S. Forest superintendent, was guest speaker at Tuesday night's regular meeting of the Youngsville Kiwanis Club.

Gorton, whose topic was "Timber and Wild Life," spoke of the work being carried on in the Allegheny National Forest.

With district headquarters in Sheffield, Bradford, Meadville and Ridgway and offices in Warren and Irvine, 381 full-time employees manage the 475,000 acre forest.

The national forest is a sizeable industry with a payroll last year of $1,270,000. Thirty-six million board feet of timber was harvested in 1965 and sold for almost one million dollars. Value of timber per unit volume in the ANF is as high as any forest in the United States.

Cultural operations are being carried on to improve the quality of the timber in the forest. Last year 11,000 acres were given a pre-commercial thinning and regeneration cutting was done on 2,000 acres.

About 60 miles of roads are built each year in the forest at a cost of $6,000 per mile, to move out the timber sold. Twenty-five per cent of the revenue Gorton said, is returned to the county in lieu of taxes. Warren County's share last year was $60,243, or about 50 cents per acre of forest land.

There were 24 Kiwanis members at the dinner session at First Methodist Church and guests were Clyde Loomis, Carl Elmquist, Robert Sherman and James Blomquist of the Warren Kiwanis Club.

President Howard Husted called a director's meeting last night at Robert Kellerman's home in Irvine.

Breakfast Briefs

Harrisburg Meeting

County Commissioner D. H. Lay said about two-thirds of the commissioners in the Commonwealth attended a conference called Wednesday by Governor Raymond P. Shafer. While some discussion centered on mental health and retardation and policies affecting some public nursing homes, Child Welfare personnel was the main topic. Salaries to be paid as mandated by the federal government and securing professional personnel were outlined as the particular problems. States are competing for child welfare personnel, Lay said, so the government is establishing certain pay standards. Professionals recently received a 15 per cent mandatory pay raise but some seek an annual increment as well.

License Suspension

Seven Warren County motorists have had their operator's licenses suspended for the period beginning January 16. They are: Anthony J. Bevevino, 918 Fourth ave., speeding, two months; John O. Brown, 103 Curtis st., Sugar Grove, speeding, four months; William G. Crump, 329 Prospect st., speeding, 75 days; Donald L. Kunselman, 506 W. Fifth ave., reckless driving, one month; Lee O. Sondericker Jr., 611 Water st., speeding, four months; Dan R. Weiruch, RD 1, Clarendon, reckless driving, one month, and Norman A. Wygant, 1931 Pennsylvania ave. E., reckless driving, six months.

Securities Salesmen

The Pennsylvania Securities Commission announced yesterday that for the period from Dec. 1, 1966 to January 30, 1967, 341 salesmen were registered to sell securities in the Commonwealth. Of this number, 153 of the 155 salesmen who were required to take the Pennsylvania Securities examination received a passing grade.

Spirits Go Up

The Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board has approved the request of Distillers Corp., Seagrams Ltd. and several other distillers for price increases on distilled spirits. Increases range from five cents to 74 cents a fifth. Most of the increases amount to 16 cents a fifth.

On Fluoridation

Concern over fluoridation of public water systems has been expressed by the National Defense Committee of the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution. A recent bulletin issued by the committee states the DAR's concern in regard to fluoridation lies in the fact that the latter is mass medication by public health officials which ignores the individual's wishes as well as the diagnoses of private physicians or dentists. The bulletin says it is an expression of socialized medicine and in violation of constitutional rights as citizens.

Study Watershed

Considerable interest centers throughout the area in the proposed Oil Creek Watershed project. A decision on whether the Centerville dam site will be multi-purpose for recreational uses is expected to be made within the next few weeks.

Patient Reappears

A 17-year-old patient at Warren State Hospital, who reportedly fled the institution Monday, reappeared, according to police, who were alerted to be on the look-out for the Erie youth. Hospital officials were concerned when the juvenile was listed as missing since he might have attempted to harm himself.

THE LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS is now making a study of China and its background, as participants in the national LWV program of studies. In line with this, the League recommends watching tonight "China: The Roots of Madness," a TV special Xerox documentary. Its author is Theodore White, Pulitzer prize winning author-historian and recognized leading authority on China. The documentary considers the century of tragedy that awakened the sleeping giant, and explores the power plays and background that created the China of today. It may be seen at 9:30 on ABC TV channels WKBE, WJAC and WLCU. The Warren League has added another facet to its studies; Now on display in the Warren Public Library are books and other reading material on the Peoples Republic of China. This includes "The China Puzzle", published by the LWV of the United States. Well written and comprehensive, this paperback may be purchased from the League.

DEAR HELOISE: Discarded (or new) road maps make attractive and durable book covers for school books.

They would be so colorful and interesting! And, just think of the money you save on book covers — to use on other school supplies. Heloise

Can you tell me how to prevent it from slipping? Mary

DEAR MARY: I know just what you mean. You can either buy a piece of thin foam rubber to put under the bath mat or . . . take a plastic bag (such as comes on your garments from the cleaner), wrinkle it slightly and place under the rug. It works on asphalt, too! Love, Heloise

"A Pleasure To Serve You"

Nuptial Vows Pledged In Bakersfield, Calif.

Mary Evelyn Moyer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard M. Moyer of 115 Sixth Avenue, Warren, and Larry Wayne Lee, son of Mr. and Mrs. Damon A. Lee of 2904 Dore drive, Bakersfield, California were recently married in an evening service at St. Joseph's Catholic Church in Bakersfield, California.

The Rev. Father McKee performed the double ring wedding rites. Traditional wedding music was provided at the organ, and two vases of white chrysanthemums ornamented the candlelight altar.

Escorted on the arm of Mr. Jerry Williams, the bride approached the altar in a street length dress of white embroidered crepe with matching coat and pillow with shoulderlength veil. She wore a pearl tear drop, the gift of her aunt.

Attending the bride was Mrs. Wanda McNew of Ridgecrest, California. Mrs. McNew wore a blue linen costume with matching headpiece and she carried a bouquet of blue carnations.

The best man was Damon A. Lee, Jr., of Bakersfield, and ushers were David and Richard Lee, all brothers of the groom.

The mother of the groom wore a light green linen suit with a white gardenia corsage.

The new Mr. and Mrs. Lee honeymooned in Las Vegas, Nevada. For traveling the bride wore a brown wool suit with the white gardenia corsage from the center of her wedding bouquet.

The newlyweds came to Warren afterwards to spend a few days with the parents of the bride. Mr. and Mrs. Moyer entertained in their home with a reception for their daughter and son-in-law which was attended by fifty friends and relatives. Table appointments were carried out in crystal and silver with the centerpiece the wedding cake topped by the traditional bridal pair, and flanked by white tapers in crystal holders.

Guests were present from Lakewood, Jamestown and Fredonia, N. Y., also, Erie and Pittsburgh.

The new Mrs. Lee is a graduate of Warren Area High School, class of 1962, and from Humboldt Institute in Minneapolis, Minn. She was employed with the Navy Department in the Pentagon, Washington, D. C. Mr. Lee graduated from Bakersfield High School and served three years in the U. S. Army with one year in Vietnam. Mr. and Mrs. Lee are now living in Louisville, Kentucky, while he is stationed at Fort Knox for the duration of his service.

Open House Held In Honor Of Silver Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Sweeney of Sugar Grove were honored Sunday, January 29, at an open house for their 25th wedding anniversary. Mrs. Sweeney greeted guests in a three-piece navy blue and white knit suit to which she pinned a gardenia and hyacinth blossom corsage. Mr. Sweeney received a carnation boutonniere; flowers were a gift from their grandson, Frank Allan Conboy.

Two hundred guests attended the affair, which was held in the parlors of the Sugar Grove Presbyterian Church. A four-tiered wedding cake, decorated with pastel pink flowers and silver leaves centered the table; several bouquets of carnations, roses, mums and gladioli in a pink and white scheme adorned the parlor. Organ music was provided throughout the afternoon by the couple's son, Patrick.

Mr. Sweeney and the former Janet Virginia Richmond were married January 28, 1942. Robert Sweeney, best man, and William Sweeney, an usher at the wedding, were present for the anniversary. (Edward Richmond, also an usher at the wedding, was killed in the Korean Conflict). Mrs. Sweeney's only attendant was her sister, Mrs. Ross Paterniti, who phoned congratulations from Daytona Beach, Florida, where she now resides.

The couple has four children, Mrs. Allan Conboy, David, Donna, and Patrick Sweeney, who were hosts for the open house.

Aides for the occasion were Mrs. James Landin, Mrs. Hu-

Household Hints

Crumble leftover bacon and use in scrambled eggs, chip dips, cheese spreads or on peanut butter sandwiches.

After you've been out in the cold winter air, a cup of hot soup is a quick warmer-upper. Combine and heat 1 can condensed chicken noodle and 1 can vegetarian vegetable soup. For crunch, add a sprinkling of crushed pretzels before serving.

To set hair quickly use cologne. It dries rapidly and leaves your hair nicely scented.

To avoid a ring on fabrics after you've used cleaning fluids, spread a layer of white talcum powder or cornstarch over the entire damp area. Brush off when dry.

Matted suede can be touched into a handy cleaning apron by up by rubbing gently with an emery board.

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am still boiling over that letter from the woman who had a few dozen words for mothers who take their children to the beauty shop.

Nobody wants children. The super-market managers complain because they knock over the merchandise and fool with the carts. Movies don't want them because they are noisy. Restaurant people hate to see them come in. Many apartment ads say "No Children." Several fancy resorts print on their brochures, "Peaceful and quiet. Adults Only."

What in the world are people with children supposed to do — keep them in the closet until they are 18?

I have seen some of these youngsters whose parents never took them any place. They are like savages and it's not their fault. Ann, They've never been out before. Please print this letter as a rebuttal. — PROSMALL FRY

DEAR PRO: The "little savages" you see running around in beauty shops, super-markets, and restaurants are not wild because they have never been out before — many of them have been out a good bit. They are wild because they are undisciplined. No one has taken the time and trouble to train them to behave properly.

Children do not belong every place — even well-trained children. But a youngster who is mannerly and well behaved is welcomed almost anywhere.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I had been dating a very nice chap for several months. We both attend Hendrix College.

Last week my boy friend came to the dorm and asked me to go for a short ride before supper. I said yes and away we went. Half an hour later I heard some stirring in the back seat of the car and was shocked to find that a girl from the dorm had sneaked into the car and was lying on the floor, covered with a blanket.

When we uncovered her she laughingly said it was a gag and she couldn't understand why we were annoyed with her.

What do you think of a gag like this? Are we humorless and stuffy as she insists? — CONWAY, ARK.

DEAR ANN: Gag my foot. The little sneak was hoping to get an eyeful — or at least an earful. In my opinion this girl is a leading contender for the 1967 Rock Bottom Award — Skunk Division.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: About four years ago I began to notice a ringing in my ears. I went to two specialists and was told it was a defect of the nerve and I'd better learn to live with it.

A year later my hearing went bad. I was all right in small groups and on the telephone, but in large crowds I couldn't hear anything because the ringing became louder and louder. Now I'm in agony in a crowd because I can't follow a conversation. Don't tell me I'm too sensitive and to go anyway — that people are considerate of folks who have hearing problems. I've learned that people can be awfully cruel. Last week a woman said, "Oh, she hears what she wants to."

I keep busy with my gardening, reading, cooking and sewing, but when I go where there are crowds I become nervous and ill. Any advice? — NO SOLUTION

DEAR NO: Yes. Avoid crowds. It's as simple as that.

Fashions By Gres Still Look Strange

By GLORIA EMERSON

(C) N. Y. Times News Service

PARIS — The trick to seeing a collection designed by Madame Gres is not to psychoanalyze it — or her.

Madame Gres is eccentric and people love it. She is also considered a genius in a profession where praise is splashed around as generously as water in a desert. Her Grecian chiffon evening dresses, her tent dresses and her bias coats made her reputation — which is never clipped by an odd, or minor, collection like the one she showed Tuesday. She also cuts, and drapes, herself. Few other couturiers know how — and would dream of still doing it.

There are many divided skirts and shorts showing beneath short or long dresses in the Gres spring-summer collection seen Tuesday. Madame Gres showed shorts several years ago under tent dresses and tunics; now all of Paris has done the same. Her creations still look strange, but less so perhaps because everyone else is doing the same idea.

Some of the shorts — which end higher on the leg than Bermuda shorts and are narrow — come out under puzzling outfits. Paris couturiers are not famous for their logic but it is often hard to picture precisely where Madame Gres sees her clothes being worn.

Take, for example, a one-shoulder cellophane long tunic striped with bands of grey tulle. It looks stiff to wear and must certainly be hot. The tunic — which has a sloping hemline — shows the white linen shorts worn underneath it.

Where will this go and when? There are no easy answers at Madame Gres. She also showed big Aubrey Beardsley prints in long printed gauze dresses with matching hats that look like giant, puffy shower caps.

Hairbows on the heads of the doleful models who cross the salons at Madame Gres — like women who cannot quite remember what they have lost — are unusual. The bows are little hairpieces. They are very hairy.

Aiko — the minute Eurasian model at Gres with the lovely, melancholy face — has a figure like a 10-year old. She wears some of those cut-out dresses in linen that Madame Gres has always liked. Every little delicate rib — and vertebrae — seems to show.

If shorts don't peek out from under shorter dresses, or show at the slits of tunics, they rather surprisingly show under evening dresses which have slit panels slithering about or one deep-slit up to the waist in front, or even in back.

A double-breasted navy linen low-belted jacket with a navy, divided skirt, lights up the room. So does her pale pink coat with the double-tab closing and a long white crepe cutaway to show one side of the ribcage. On the other side, the skirt is attached to the top and hangs like a sail.

The great Gres in the collection has a chiffon plaid top that breezes out like a permanently windblown smock. It is worn with wide, very fine wool trousers in the same plaid. That plaid — which has mauve, dark green and white — is one of the prettiest in the Paris shows.

Madame Gres showed a thin gold choker which doesn't quite encircle the neck and she often

Soap Revolution

The Romans first discovered the chemistry of soap, but for centuries soapmaking was a long and tedious process. Soap was so rare that even Queen Elizabeth I of England could have the luxury of a bath only once a month. It wasn't until the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries in France that important scientific discoveries made commercial soap manufacture possible. Since then, various improvements have made soap more pleasant to use. But there were no real improvements in soap's effectiveness until 1948, when the introduction of Dial with AT-7 revolutionized the soap industry. It was the first soap to effectively reduce odor and infection-causing bacteria on the skin.

..... hangs things from it. There is an eightball — miniature, of course — dangling from one of the chokers. She also liked very coarse fishnet stockings and colored pumps, and occasionally short dark gloves with a summer dress. Don't ask why; count the blessings here.

Philomel Club Program Covers Influence of The Dance On Music

"Dance Variations" was the theme of an entertaining program planned by Mrs. Jacob Levinson, chairman for the Wednesday afternoon, February first, meeting of the Philomel Club in the Woman's Club.

Mrs. Levinson opened the program with the story of the dance, stating that in prehistoric and primitive cultures the dance became primarily a ritual to win the favor of the gods. The Greeks were responsible for developing the dance into an art expressing beauty for its own sake.

During the Middle Ages the opposition of the church suppressed the dance. The wars and pestilences of the fourteenth century brought back the convulsive dances of the religious fanatics as an expression of their despair and fear of the populace, and it was at this time that men and women joined hands in folk-like round dances.

Regaining its power in the fifteenth century, the church again brought partial suppression of the dance. With the appearance of new dances in the ballrooms, the sixteenth century became the century of the dance and influenced the production of music during the seventeenth century.

For the first musical presentation, Mrs. Levinson and Mrs. Harry Kopf, Jr., played an early eighteenth century duet number, Handel's "Dance Suite", consisting of four dances, "Allemande", "Courante", "Sarabande", and "Chaconne".

Mrs. Harry Kopf Jr., played "Three Dances — Polka, Waltz, and Schottisch" by Shostakovich.

Continuing the story of the dance, Mrs. Levinson stated that during the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries new dances developed.

Mrs. Levinson and Mrs. Kopf then presented "Der Rosenkavalier, Opus 59", a duo-piano composition by Strauss, arranged by Otto Singer, which shows the love, gaiety, and rhythm of the waltz, the romantic dance of all times.

Early in the twentieth century, America contributed ragtime and jazz music to the dance. The cake walk captured the imagination of Debussy. As a previously unannounced number, Mrs. Levinson played "General Lavine" by Debussy.

For the final number of the program, Mrs. Levinson and Mrs. Kopf played Benjamin's "Jamaican Rumba".

For the table decoration, Mrs. Charles Tranter, hostess chairman, used a tall arrangement of lavender iris, several white chrysanthemums, sprigs of eucalypti, and white nylon net in two white cherub compotes, flanked with four white candles in white containers.

Mrs. Henry Bailey and Mrs. R. W. Foster-Pegg presided at the tea table. Other members of the social committee were Mrs. Talbot Aldrich, Mrs. Howard Alexander, Mrs. A. B. Charamonte, Mrs. Gayle Garrett, Mrs. James Holmberg, Mrs. J. K. Krimmel, Mrs. Harry Logan, Mrs. John Roop, and Mrs. Harry Segel.

The bidding:
West North East South
1 Pass 2 Pass 2 Pass
Dble. Pass Pass Pass

Opening lead: Deuce of ♣.
The above deal was taken from a recent International Team-of-Four match between the United States and Italy.

When the American players held the East-West cards, the bidding proceeded as depicted in the diagram. West's opening bid of one diamond does not quite measure up to standard requirements, however, it may be observed that he does have two and one-half defensive tricks and a rebidable suit.

East had 19 points, enough to make a jump shift, however, he chose to bid his time by responding with two clubs. South's overall of two spades was of doubtful wisdom. Contending against two bidding opponents with unfavorable vulnerability, there appears to be much more to lose than gain by entering the proceedings.

West's penalty double of two spades was well reasoned. He holds what appears to be a minimum of four defensive tricks, and it can be expected from East's response at the two level, that the latter has a better than average hand. There is further consideration that West's double is not an absolute command. If East's values are primarily distributional, he is at liberty to rescue himself.

East was well-heeled and he realized that any profit the partnership could score offensively would be more than compensated by the vulnerable penalty, so he passed.

West led his singleton club and subsequently obtained three club ruffs, putting his partner in once with a heart and later with the king of diamonds by underleading the ace. The defense also took the ace and king of spades, thereby holding declarer to five tricks and inflicting an 800-point penalty.

Inasmuch as East and West were not vulnerable and the bonus for bidding and making a game would be only 300 points, it appeared that the United States might score a substantial profit on the deal. However, at the other table, when the Americans were sitting North-South, West passed as the dealer and East opened with one club. South chose to make a preemptive jump overall of three spades which West doubled.

The play followed substantially the same course as at the other table and inasmuch as South was one trick higher, the contract was set four tricks for an 1,100-point setback. Italy thereby gained 300 points.

Your Horoscope

By Frances Drake

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars. FOR FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 3, 1967.

ARIES (March 21 to April 20) — Be sure others know what you are driving at; searching for new outlets is fine if you don't put aside regular, necessary routine. Don't be perturbed by idle remarks.

TAURUS (April 21 to May 21) — Today is not a day to crash but rather to filter through, thereby reducing resistance with less harshness. Carrying a chip on the shoulder will increase opposition.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21) — You are happiest when working at something. Get at the chores and complete them, so you can test an intriguing plan that has been asking attention. No boondoggling!

CANCER (June 22 to July 23) — Discard the superfluous, be it in the home or in your thoughts or actions. These are busy days and won't brook excess baggage. Preside over your doings thoughtfully.

LEO (July 24 to August 23) — Look ahead to where you are going and behind to maintain standards while you also direct yourself through new development. Odd things cropping up periodically? Make yourself available to new skills.

VIRGO (August 24 to September 23) — Slow up enough to check which matters demand first and MORE handling, and which can be conveniently postponed. Be progressive, but retain old methods of quality.

LIBRA (September 24 to October 23) — Now is the time to find out if your efficiency and common sense for truly fine advantages are working at full force. Be reasonable (your real self), not forceful.

SCORPIO (October 24 to November 23) — Say NO to the flamboyant remark or activity lacking depth or foundation. One builds on rocks, not sand that shifts position at slightest nudge. You seldom discourage; that's the spirit!

SAGITTARIUS (November 23 to December 21) — Don't be swayed once you have decided what is best and right. Your intuition and conscience will stand by you. Dismantle the unserviceable; refuse the negative, but listen to all sides.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 20) — Don't be caught napping or chatting when you are rightly expected to be working. But really rest when that time is due you.

AQUARIUS (January 21 to February 19) — A palliative only relieves for the time being. Seek lasting modifications and results. Be temperate in all; take heart and light another's way.

PISCES (February 20 to March 20) — The leap in techniques is tremendous; be one of the spearheaders. Support all that will help the economy, and mental and physical well-being. Some things (even people) will seem to collide.

YOU BORN TODAY: Your keyword is moving forward. You do have quite an insight into the future, but may not develop it as you should. A genuine interest in affairs and in persons individually is inherent, yet you may seem to forget those closest to you — your family — sometimes. You don't mean to, SO DON'T! Can be brilliant and provocative, and are a distinguished activator in industry, engineering, aviation or any other world-developing activities. You are a good companion, well liked socially; can and should promote good-fellowship; are a reasoner. Some unusual issues to tackle soon; keep fit, unworried. Birthdate: Many prime movers of large-scale events — athletes, printers, theologians.

How to Keep Well

By Dr. T. R. Van Dellen

APHASIA

Aphasia is a defect in or loss of the power of expression. When the speech centers, housed in the left side of the brain, are damaged through injury or disease, the individual is unable to talk, understand the words of others, read, or write.

Language is an integration of what we see, hear, read, and feel. The victim of aphasia loses one or more of these faculties. An olderster with heart trouble or hardening of the arteries may suddenly find himself unable to read or to understand the meaning of a written or printed word. He recognizes isolated letters but cannot fit them together into a meaningful word.

Meanwhile he talks well, answers questions, and is able to recognize objects and pictures. The cause of this type of aphasia is a tiny clot that had its beginning in the heart and travels into a small artery that supplies blood to the part of the language center that has to do with interpretation of the written word. It is a frustrating experience but does not last long.

In amnesic aphasia, a somewhat similar pattern is followed except that the individual is unable to give the name of a familiar object such as a pen. When given a pen to hold and asked to look at a long list of names and indicate the word that fits, the victim points to the pen without hesitation. He even nods in the affirmative when the word pen is spoken, but he cannot associate the object with its vocal symbol.

All these examples are forms of receptive aphasia in that the recognition or meaning of something seen, heard, or felt is hindered. They are in contrast to expressive aphasia in which the sufferer is unable to communicate through conversation, writing, or other sign language. Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

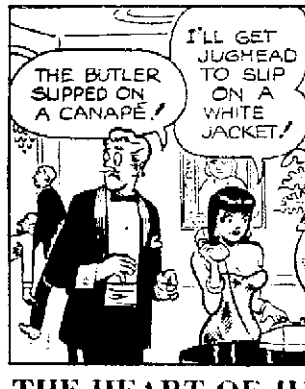

TOMORROW: Noise Levels.

Warren A Cappella Sets 'HMS Pinafore' Musical

By KAYE GORENFLO

Next Thursday evening, the Warren High School Auditorium will be the scene for one of the most popular Gilbert and Sullivan operettas — Pinafore. The comic-opera is being put on by the members of the A Cappella Choir, with the curtain going up at 8:15.

Captain Corcoran, played by Denny DeLuca, commands the H.M.S. Pinafore, lying at anchor in Portsmouth harbor. His daughter, Josephine (Nancy Niedzialek), is secretly in love with a lowly sailor aboard her father's ship—Ralph, played by Barry Dietsch.

As is usually the case, a love triangle evolves. Sir Joseph Porter, played by Corky Greenwood, falls in love with Josephine, but alas — he is rejected. Captain Corcoran, feeling more than a little bit depressed, sighs to the moon (?), and is overheard by Little Buttercup, the stewardess, who does quite her very best to console him. Portraying Buttercup will be Ann McFate.

In the meantime, Dick Dead-eye, played by Ross Bryan, having overheard the elopement plans of Josephine and Ralph, reveals his information to Corcoran, who promptly becomes infuriated. Quite naturally, Sir Joseph likewise becomes angry since Josephine had promised to marry him.

Our poor hero, Ralph, is placed in irons, whereupon Little But-tercup feels it necessary to reveal a few old family skeletons. It seems that long ago she had been the nurse to two babies—one a patrician and one a commoner.

Unfortunately, the babies were mixed up, and Ralph is actually the patrician and the captain is the commoner.

Revelation! Sir Joseph accordingly orders the release of Ralph, who is given the ship's command as well as the hand of Josephine. To make the story complete, Buttercup weds the former Captain Corcoran.

Along with these already mentioned, others in speaking parts are: Chris Williams, Cousin Hebe, and John Tillard, The Boat-swain. Other members of the A Cappella Choir complete the remainder of the cast.

Today, excerpts of Pinafore will be presented in an assembly at WAHS, with a few of the primary selections being sung.

But, for the "real thing", put in an appearance next Thursday at 8:15. Tickets may be obtained from any choir member for 50 cents.

Chief Warbonnet Presents Assembly at Tidioute High

By ED ZIEGLER

Chief Pete Warbonnet, great-grandson of Bear Robe, a medicine man who sat with Chief Sitting Bull, presented a very educational assembly on the American Indian, past and present, Wednesday in the Tidioute High Auditorium.

Chief Warbonnet, a member of the Sioux Indian Tribe, was wearing Sioux war dress during the assembly. He traced the history of his tribe, which originated in Minnesota. Constantly plagued by hostile enemies, the Sioux moved to the Dakotas, a land of plains and rolling hills, where they found food and game to be very plentiful.

The chief explained the life and daily course of the tribes as they moved about the plains. Dogs were the first beasts of burden used by the Sioux. The dogs either carried bundles on their backs or pulled their loads behind them. Horses were first used in the United States by the Spaniards but the Sioux were the first natives to make use of them.

Next, Chief Warbonnet showed the faculty and student body many articles made by the Sioux. He showed the group weapons, utensils, drums and ceremonial garb. He closed this interesting assembly with a demonstration of sign language and an authentic war dance.

Snow Flake Ball Held at Sheffield

Sheffield cafeteria took on a gay atmosphere Saturday, Jan. 28, when the Sheffield High School seniors sponsored the "Snow Flake Ball".

"The Kona" provided music under a swirl of hundreds of snowflakes. The winter theme was carried through with a large, white snowman and an igloo, dominating the scene.

These, combined with a wall mural of a scene and a festive ceiling, were evidence of the time, effort, and imagination spent by the seniors to make this an enjoyable evening for those attending the semi formal dance.

STUDENT FROM EGYPT SAYS:

'Everything Wonderful'

By TESSA SIFFIN
and NANCY JOHNSON

Bassna Sadek, Warren's exchange student from Cairo, Egypt, says everything is wonderful in America.

Coming from a family of five, she has a brother 16, and a married sister who lives in Berkeley, California. Her father is a Justice of the Supreme Court of Cairo.

Bassna, who is now 17 and will be 18 next month, attended a private school.

In Egypt a private school which offers two extra years in business courses, besides the regular 12 years of schooling, is called a college. The equivalent to an American college is called a university.

She finds American schools quite different.

In Egypt she attended school 6 days a week from 8:30 - 4:30. Friday and Monday they attend school 1/2 a day. In Egypt they have an average of 14 subjects and 6 to 7 hours of homework a night. Another main difference is the fact that no one forces you to attend school. If you go, you go, if you don't, no one really worries about it.

Sports are stressed heavily. In school the girls are formed into teams as well as the boys. They often practice against the boys to gain experience and strength. This also benefits the boys, in that they are prepared to play both weak and strong opponents. Popular national sports are soccer, tennis, ping-pong, basketball, and a game called squash. Inside the school, field hockey is very popular.

Movies, (three films for 30 cents) are an inexpensive yet popular means of entertainment. Often, people attend an outdoor theater, different from ours because seats are provided. The hangout for everyone - children, teenagers, and adults - is a sporting club. This is perhaps 10 miles square and has all kinds of sports and clubhouses in various sections of the area. If a child is missing from the home, he can always be found in this particular spot.

Parents in Egypt are stricter with girls than they are in America. For instance girls can only date in groups. On the other hand, Egyptian boys are given more liberty than American boys.

The same fads are current in Egypt as in America. Popular singing groups are the same

On Wednesday, 34 seniors were inducted as new members of the National Honor Society at W.A.H.S.

The president of the Honor Society, Jane Kieshauer, welcomed everyone to the assembly and introduced the guest speaker, William Clinger Jr., a prominent Warren attorney.

The stage band under the direction of Daniel Harpster provided music. John Zawacki explained the emblem of the Honor Society and the meaning of the candles: white for character, gold for scholarship, red for leadership, and blue for service.

The officers of the Honor Society, Jane Kieshauer, president; Craig Stoldt, vice-president; Judy Grillo, secretary; and Bruce King, treasurer; lit the candles.

Ann Morelli and Kenneth Bunk cited the activities of the inductees. Bonnie Carlson was in charge of the roll signing. Mark Segel was in charge of the candles. Miss Steele, the club's advisor, passed out the pins to new members and Mr. Joseph Passaro, principal, passed out the membership cards. Mr. Passaro also administered the pledge to old and new members.

Chairman of the induction committee was Ann Morelli. Chairman of the reception committee was Renee Shulman. The parking committee was Scott Hunter and Ron Mohney. The welcoming committee was Sue Fogle, Ann McFate, Paula Mead, Frances Muczynski, Chris Bryan, and Becky Keyvinski.

ALFREDO BAEZA LEAVING

Tidioute Loses Teacher, Student

By CARL PILLAR

Tidioute High School students were recently saddened by the departure of one of our foreign exchange students, Alfredo Ortiz Baeza.

Alfredo, who came to us from Argentina, cut short his stay in Tidioute for personal reasons but will remain in this country, having enrolled in a high school in the Pittsburgh area.

Though his stay here was short, Alfredo left an indelible mark on those of us who were fortunate enough to know him well. His great personality and friendly manner helped him gain the friendship and admiration of all those who came in contact with him.

We wish him luck in all that he may do since leaving Tidioute and our school.

Our recently acquired Spanish teacher, Miss Penelope Barley has also decided to leave our school, also for personal reasons, mainly to pursue a different vocation.

Miss Barley plans to enroll in the Peace Corps Program and will be stationed in Bolivia where her fiancé is also stationed.

A dance was held Saturday night in her honor, by her Spanish students.

SHAFFER ASKING INCREASE

Scholarships Program Develops Into Major Battle in Assembly

HARRISBURG (AP) — There are growing signs that a major legislative battle could develop over appropriations for the state's scholarship program for the 1967-68 fiscal year.

Gov. Shafer, who is still preparing his education proposals, was asked about the scholarship program last week at his first full-scale news conference since becoming governor.

Shafer was reminded that during his campaign he had pledged to increase the scholarship program to $60 million; he was asked what recommendation he would make to the legislature.

"I can't tell you that exactly," Shafer replied. "As I have said repeatedly, we have not analyzed the budget totally. We do not know exactly what we will be recommending specifically."

"Our platform said that we wanted to raise our scholarship and loan program to $60 million, but there was no specific date mentioned for the figure. That is something we are shooting for."

"We may have to adjust our sights from time to time to make sure that we do accomplish that goal. That's our goal and this is what I want to see accomplished."

Democratic leaders, however, have a different view of the Republican governor's campaign promise.

Rep. Herbert Fineman, House minority leader, said that both Shafer and the Republican State Platform Committee had committed themselves to boost the scholarship fund to $60 million "immediately, not some time in the future."

"We (the Democrats) are behind the scholarship proposal 1,000 per cent," Fineman said, "but we want to see it pass the House by 102 Republican votes, not 100. If they need two Democratic votes to pass the legislation, it won't be a fulfillment of the platform pledge."

Fineman was critical of what he said were efforts by former Gov. Scranton and Shafer to take full credit for drafting and implementing what the Republicans have termed "Pennsylvania's first comprehensive scholarship program, already among the best in the nation."

Democrats, who controlled the House for the last two years, should have been given a large share of the credit for getting the scholarship program in business, Fineman said.

Fineman pointed out that two years ago Scranton had sought only $2 million to establish the scholarship program, but the House Democrats had increased the appropriation to $4 million.

Last year, he said, Scranton had proposed a $7.1 million scholarship-loan program, but House Democrats expanded the package to $17.6 million: $12.6 million for scholarships and $5 million for state-guaranteed student loans.

"So now let's talk about scholarships," Fineman said. "Gov. Shafer says he's all for them. Well, we want to know when he got religion. He says the program should be bipartisan. We agree, but we want the Democrats to get their fair share of the credit for the programs that are passed."

And Fineman again stressed that House Democrats would hold Shafer to what they consider a promise to increase the scholarship fund to $60 million at once.

"It's right here in the published platform," he said. "It says immediately, not eventually. And it also says the $60 million will be for scholarships alone, not for scholarships and loans. It also pledges to increase the loan program proportionately."

He said the money available for loans now totals about 1-5 of the program's budget. Using that figure, the loan funds would have to be increased to $12 million to "proportionately" keep pace.

For what it's worth, here is how the campaign pledge was published in the Republican State Committee's platform booklet, "To Lead the Nation."

"We will immediately increase the scholarship program to the

ZBT Brothers Disavowing 'Blackball' Rule

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP)—One of the deepest roots of the college fraternity system, the "blackball," will wither a little in February when the Zeta Beta Tau fraternity chapter at Franklin & Marshall College selects its first pledge class by majority vote.

"As far as we know, it's the first national fraternity chapter to voluntarily give up the blackball," says Dr. O. W. Lacy, F & M dean of students.

The "blackball" is the tradition written into virtually every fraternity and sorority constitution in which a single member or a handful of members can block selection of a new member on personal grounds.

The ZBT chapter recently voted to dispense with the rule.

"We feel that if one man or group of men can say that a person should not be in our fraternity, then one or a group of men should be able to say the person must be admitted. The fair way is in between—the majority vote," explains chapter president Erik Rackow.

Other ZBT chapters use a "progressive system" in which a vote of 75 per cent of the membership can overrule any number of "blackballs" against a prospective member.

Everything Shows in The Names

By BOB DeLONG

Everything but the — no, even the kitchen sink.

It's almost a contest to see who can come up with the funniest name. I guess it all started with the Beatles; at first that sounded funny, but now when you hear the name you think of four people, not insects.

Weird names for music groups are commonplace, but new ones always sound funnier.

Following the Beatles were The Animals, The Critters and The Byrds, to mention a few zoological groups.

Then came Paul Revere and The Raiders, The Rolling Stones, The Lovin' Spoonful, Sam The Sham and The Pharaohs, and The Cycle.

Of recent Top 100 fame are The Monkees, Blues Magoos, Innocents, Music Machine, Fifth Dimension, Electric Prunes, Sopwith Camels, Jefferson Airplane, Thirteenth Floor Elevator, and The Nightcrawlers.

Locally we have The Glass Menagerie, and one just starting, The Fifth Image.

Reportedly there is even a Kitchen Sink. What next? How about The Blue Tomatoes, Back Doorknob, Indefinite Articles, Unhappy Library, The Little Man Who Wasn't There. . . .

Erie Panel Parents Not Strict

Parents are not strict enough with their children. . .

These don't sound like the sentiments usually expected from teenagers, but they are some of the ideas expressed during the recent student discussions at Memorial Junior High School in Erie.

The small discussion groups (or "buzz" sessions) were initiated by Vincent Izzi, guidance counselor, to give students a chance to express themselves and help each other with common problems — with the possibility that at least some of their suggestions could be carried out.

For example many students expressed a wish for more school activities, like dances and skating parties. Others complained of homework on weekends and too many tests on one day.

These suggestions go to the student council and the principal, Albert G. Hook, for consideration and possible action.

Other students talked about dating, smoking, school spirit, jobs, friends, parents, grooming, study habits, and "personality."

Some 1,249 pupils took part in the discussions in the 7th, 8th and 9th grade homerooms. Each group of five or six discussed one topic then reported its conclusion back to the rest of the homeroom.

Many of the students — but not all of them, of course, — were surprisingly conservative in their views.

Izzi said that the group guidance technique is effective because so many students have similar problems and because they are often more ready to accept an opinion from another student than a rule from parents or teachers.

He said he felt the practice has resulted in better citizenship at Memorial.

... the toothbrush brigade

American Dental Health Week Observed at Warren

American Dental Health Week begins this Monday with the sale of sophomore class toothbrushes at Warren Area High School.

These fine quality toothbrushes, made of DuPont nylon, are purchased in a family-pak of three for the low price of one dollar. Throughout the week, all members of the class will be selling the toothbrushes.

The class of 1969 is the first sophomore class to take on a major fund-raising project. A letter from the Fuller Fund Raising Company conveyed the idea to Mr. Lou Salerno, class advisor. Details concerning the sale were explained to the members of the class during their first class meeting in mid January.

Sales will be conducted through appointed home-room leaders. These sales leaders are to collect the students' money everyday and turn it in to Greg Fino, class treasurer.

Sheffield High Hears of Trip Through Africa

By JILL BURGASON

Ever drink blood? That's what some natives in Africa do.

Mr. Wright, who led an expedition through Africa, presented a very interesting program to the student body of Sheffield High School. He showed movies of his trip which he narrated.

The natives of Africa find beauty in chipping their teeth to points. There is one tribe that when drinking water is scarce drinks blood taken from the animals.

Mr. Wright took us from the plains to the mountains and from the rivers to the tops of volcanoes.

We all enjoyed our "trip" and were glad to be able to learn so many interesting and unique things about Africa.

Youngsville High Chorus Slates 'Get Up and Go' Musical Feb. 9

The Youngsville High School Chorus under the direction of Miss Diane Bodamar will present the musical comedy "Get Up and Go" on Feb. 9th in the Youngsville High School Auditorium at 8 p.m.

The chorus will be assisted by the Youngsville High School Stage Band under the direction of Robert English.

"Get Up and Go" is a modern musical comedy created by Mary Lacey, a leading television writer and lyricist, and by Paul Weirich, a successful composer - arranger, well-known for his work on Broadway and in Hollywood.

Leading roles are being portrayed by: Becky Jewell, Dane Barber, Nancy Clark, Mary Ann Williams, Ron Knapp, Gary Carter, Kathy Brasington, Kathy Ogley, John Brasington, Peggy Briggs, John Rafalski, Dan Taylor, Terry Wiler.

Also taking part are: the members of the Sr. High Chorus. Members of the Stage Band are: Vonnie Craft, Pat Hill, Bonnie Peising, Dianne Howe, Dean Hendrickson, Janet Stewart, Amy Papalia, Barbara Danielson, Greg Clark, Merri Lee Gustafson, Betsy Patchen, Rick Blake-slee, Gloria Stec.

"Get Up and Go" currently being performed in hundreds of schools throughout the country, tells the amusing story of a private school which, through a misunderstanding between the owners, has been divided into Miss McCauley's School for Girls and Mr. Lister's School for Boys. The door joining the two schools has not been opened for three generations and a hedge divides the garden.

Although the teachers and students have been forbidden to associate with one another, they have become acquainted by utilizing a hole in the hedge. Even so, the strict rules and old-fashioned attitudes have caused the enrollment to fall, threatening both schools with bankruptcy.

Through a twist of fate an unemployed actor masquerading as a public relations man, rescues the schools from their predicament. He, with his wit and drive, proves that to work out ones problems one must "Get Up and Go".

Presented by a group of exuberant and talented youngsters, "Get Up and Go" is a clever and charming show with catchy songs. It's an experience you can't afford to miss.

CUSTOMER BILL OF RIGHTS

Move to Improve Customer Service At Postoffices

Assistant Postmaster F. H. DeLong today called attention of Warren mailers to the new "Postal Customer's Bill of Rights" to help meet President Johnson's government-wide goal of improving the quality of federal services to the public.

Directed at post office window services, Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien has ordered the Customer's Bill of Rights implemented by two immediate steps at Warren.

1. Posters will be displayed in the post office lobby and service counters containing 10 points which specify the kind of treatment customers have a right to expect.

2. Instructions from Mr. O'Brien call for careful observance of all points in the "Postal Customer's Bill of Rights." The instructions also provide directions for the most efficient management of window services.

The posters tell customers they are entitled to:

1. A neat, clean counter on which to transact business.

2. Service by a well-groomed, neat window employee.

3. A friendly greeting that expresses a desire to assist.

4. Knowledgeable, well-informed, interested window personnel to help with postal needs.

5. Prompt, alert and efficient service.

6. Competent and correct information on inquiries.

7. An attitude that reflects helpfulness, patience and congeniality.

8. The courtesy and tact that would be expected from a friend.

9. Polite referral to another window or individual, when necessary, to give the appropriate service.

10. A feeling, upon leaving, that the post office is glad to serve and help at all times.

Instructions for fulfilling "The Postal Customer's Bill of Rights" are being distributed to all window personnel by Assistant Postmaster DeLong.

In addition to improving relations with customers, Assistant Postmaster DeLong said, the "Customer's Bill of Rights" can expedite handling of transactions at the windows and make the service more efficient.

He urged Warren residents to assist in this effort, by stating their needs clearly, and having money and any necessary filled-out forms ready for transactions.

The Assistant Postmaster explained that demands on window personnel, who must deal with a wide variety of information, forms and varying services, are usually very heavy, and postal customers can assist them in meeting the new service goals by being as brief and business-like as possible.

Former Erieite

Killed in Vietnam

ERIE -- Joseph Edwards Jr., about 22, formerly of Erie, is reported to have been killed last week while serving with the U.S. armed forces in Vietnam.

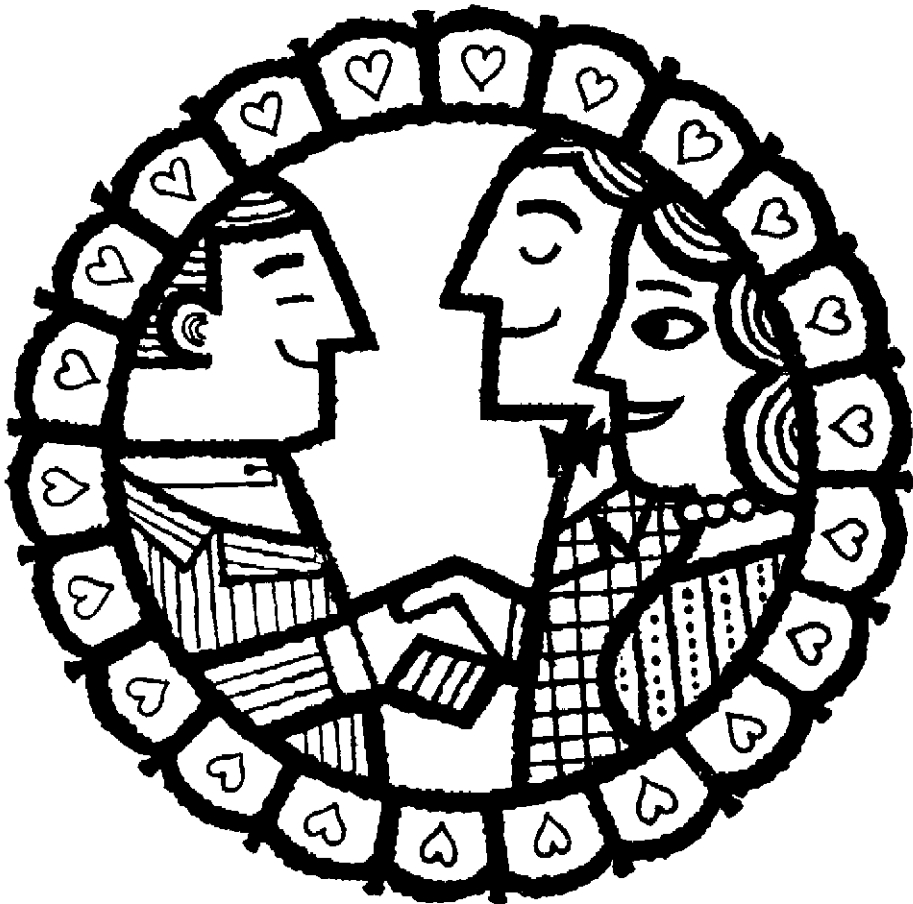

The man formerly roomed at 832 E. 19th st., and worked for the Coca Cola Co. here before going to Vietnam about a year ago.

He was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Edwards of Scottsdale, Miss., and has an aunt residing in Erie.

He was a member of the Good Samaritan A.M.E. Zion church, 328 West 11th st., and was president of the Zionite Club at the church.

A New York hotel says its bell boys walk an average of eight miles a day in the performance of their duties.

Back in Hollywood from a public appearance and concert trip East, Noel Harrison of NBC-TV's "The Girl From U.N.C.L.E." reports seeing the classic sign — "Keep Off the Grass" — peeking just three inches above a thick mantle of snow in New York's Central Park which reminded him of a famous sign which father Rex likes to quote: "Please — I Want To Be a Lawn."

'Good Will Ambassadors' Now Foster Parents Chinese Child

He's a globe-trotter! Not, as you might expect, in visits to countries throughout the world.

His globe-trotting is in another category—by correspondence, by contributions of various kinds including some skilled handicraft, and by just plain good will and uplift. Few residents of the area probably have the interest in people as had Richard (Dick) Grace, TMO Intertype operator, who with his wife, Jane, chief deputy in the office of Register and Recorder William E. Rice, maintain a steady contact with persons and families of various nationalities throughout the world.

It may be a letter with some remembrance to a family in France with whom he was acquainted during service in World War II.

It may be a gift of some kind to a missionary in frozen North, or a cutting board of his own fine handicraft, or some other household convenience, to a nun in some other part of the world, or to some friend or acquaintance in this country.

The couple has a large group of mailing acquaintances on almost all continents with whom they are in regular contact. And usually the correspondence is accompanied by some remembrance, frequently cash, even small amounts of which go far toward the comfort and well-being of the recipients in their native countries.

And in return, the Graces receive many beautiful and sincere letters of appreciation from these they have assisted in their manifold ways. But best of all the reward is the gratifying satisfaction of having done something which has helped someone of less fortunate circumstances somewhere in this wide, wide world.

The local couple has recently become foster parents of a Chinese child, now living and Greece with a recorded history going back to 766 B.C. reached the peak of its glory in the fifth century B.C.

Sya Ling Jung

attending school in Formosa. Her name is Sya Ling Jung. She was picked from over 100 pictures of boys and girls who are looking for foster parents.

All of these children fled from Red China with their parents and about 200,000 live in Taiwan, Formosa.

Sya Ling Jung is in the second grade and her report card is sent to the foster parents twice a year plus information about her background. The foster parents also receive a photograph of the girl and it is permissible to send gifts of money to the child. A gift of $2.00, incidentally, will buy a school uniform of which the little children are exceptionally proud.

And so letters go out to Formosa to their foster child periodically as Mr. and Mrs. Grace continue their program of international good-will, charity and kindness. It must be rewarding in the wonderful letters which are received from the many who share a bit more of happiness through their thoughtfulness and kindness.

"And now abideth faith, hope, charity, these three; but the greatest of these is charity."

January Snowfall Lightest in Years

SALAMANCA, N.Y. — The 35 inches of snow which fell at the Cattaraugus County Highway Dept. headquarters in Little Valley during January had the lowest density of any fall for the month since the department started keeping snowfall, rainfall, precipitation and temperature records in 1942. The low record for the 26-year period is 1.67 inches of precipitation, the department spokesman said in pointing out the amount of precipitation is calculated by melting the snowfall. Previous low precipitation for January was 1.70 inches from eight inches of snow in 1944, he reported.

From Our Corner

NEW FRONTIER by Lenore McIntyre

Anyone who disagrees with the proposal for providing expanded services and facilities for the mentally ill and mentally retarded of Warren county is suffering with a bad case of regression from reality.

The time is past when human beings afflicted with any kind of mental condition are doomed to a life of seclusion, either in an institution or behind the locked doors of his home. Medical progress is making history in this field and the public is becoming better informed and more aware both of the immensity of the problem and the provisions for its solution. The press (newspapers, magazines, radio and television) are constantly reporting on new advances being made in the area of mental health and mental retardation. And government, at state and federal levels, is stepping in to implement the findings of the medical and scientific communities.

During the Eisenhower administration, the federal government enacted legislation that provides funds for planning comprehensive services which will meet the many and varied needs of all the mentally ill and mentally retarded. During Governor Scranton's tenure, the Commonwealth followed through by authorizing regional studies to determine services and facilities needed to cope with this ever-expanding problem.

In 1964, the Warren County Mental Health Planning Committee was formed. Serving in this study group were many prominent laymen, doctors and educators. The committee compiled a comprehensive evaluation of existing and needed services and facilities and forwarded its recommendations to the Pennsylvania Department of Public Welfare, as did other such groups throughout the state.

The Mental Health and Mental Retardation Act of 1966 was the logical result of the findings of local people at the local level. When county officials act to establish the services and facilities found to be needed, it will be the final gesture in a superb demonstration of cooperative effort from the "grass roots" to the federal government.

It would be pleasant if we could say that Warren county has no need of such services and facilities. But such is not the case. Those who can look beyond themselves and see the misfortunes of their fellowmen are well aware that Warren county has its afflicted, and human compassion demands that every effort be made to make available locally what medical science has discovered in the field of mental health and mental retardation. Anyone who watched the CBS Reports program on television Tuesday night must have been inspired with hope as to what is being done now and can be accomplished in the future to help the mentally ill.

No sensitive person could fail to be touched by the case history of the eight-year-old boy, doomed to hopeless mental retardation, who now lives a useful, productive life as a result of diet and drug therapy.

Warren county has such children, some living within the home and others in institutions. More will be born with mental defects or will develop them as the result of injury and disease.

Many Warren county people are carrying such burdens of life or are so unequipped to cope with modern stress and strain that they are likely candidates for mental breakdown. Anywhere you look, you can find people, old, young and in-between, who can benefit from an adequate mental health program with the necessary services and facilities.

It is selfish, unfeeling and unrealistic to say that Warren county doesn't need what has been indicated by a careful study of the problem. There is a pressing need for a psychiatric unit, security rooms for emergency treatment and detention of emotionally disturbed people, for an out-patient clinic, and day schools for the training and development of the mentally retarded.

There is a pressing need for Warren county residents to realize that the mental health problem is a very real one and to demand that every possible effort be made to minimize it. You can't solve life's problems and dilemmas by ignoring them.

Rex Chainbelt Executives Foresee Continued Sales Increase in 1967

MILWAUKEE, Wis. — Sales and earnings increases for fiscal 1967 over the recently completed record-breaking results achieved in 1966 were predicted for Rex Chainbelt Inc. by O.W. Carpenter, board chairman and chief executive officer, Thomas Couplings of Warren, Pa., is a division of Rex Chainbelt.

Addressing shareholders at the company's annual meeting here, Mr. Carpenter estimated earnings for the coming year to increase in excess of 14 percent and sales to rise 10 percent over fiscal 1966 totals. Fiscal 1966 saw the company reach all-time highs of $10,096,000 in earnings and $139,611,000 in sales.

Carpenter and company president, William C. Messinger, both outlined for shareholders

Rex Chainbelt's philosophy concerning future corporate growth of the broadly diversified manufacturer of mechanical power drive and conveyor components, fluid power products, material and unit handling systems, water pollution control equipment, and construction machinery.

Messinger, in his address to the shareholders attending the meeting at the Milwaukee Inn hotel, presented the company's plans for a continuing successful growth over the years ahead.

He pointed out that Rex Chainbelt has progressed, throughout its 73-year history, at an annual rate of 9 percent in volume and pretax profit, the equivalent of doubling every 8 years.

A minimum objective for the future is to continue that 9 percent annual rate, Messinger said. Thus, the minimum goal in the next 8 years is to build the business from the present figure of $160 million to $320 million in sales, and pretax profits from $19.6 million to $40 million.

The objectives will not only be met in the years ahead but "we are very confident that these objectives can be surpassed," Messinger said.

Shareholders were told by Messinger that one of the most exciting phases of Rex Chainbelt's future is that of new products which will come from the company's creative engineering and research. On this point, Messinger commented: "More than 50 percent of our total shipment volume in 1966 came from new Rex products which didn't exist for us five years ago. I am certain we will be saying the same thing five years from now."

Plan Checkup

Dogs February 15

HARRISBURG — Dog owners are warned that a statewide checkup will begin February 15 for unlicensed dogs.

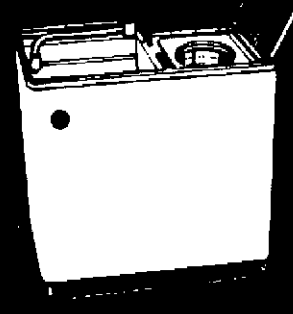

According to T. Luke Toomey, director of the Bureau of Dog Law Enforcement, State Department of Agriculture, anyone owning or harboring a dog over six months of age not bearing a current license will be subject to prosecution. Penalties on conviction range from fines of $10 to $300 and costs of prosecution, or imprisonment of not more than 30 days.

Toomey reminded dog owners that the law states that all dogs must be properly confined or under reasonable control of an individual; that police may seize and detain any dog found running at large, and in such instances, the owner is subject to a fine and costs before the dog is returned.

The deadline for 1967 license was January 16. However, licenses may be obtained at any time at county treasurers' offices.
